ARLINGTON HEIGHTS HERALD

VOLUME 18, NUMBER 49 | Published Every Friday by H. O. PADDOCK SONS | Entered as second class matter under act of March 3, 1879, at Arlington Heights, Ill. | ARLINGTON HEIGHTS, ILL. FRIDAY AUGUST 3, 1945 | 2 SECTIONS — 12 PAGES | $2.00 PER YEAR

$2,000 added to War Memorial Fund here

The financial report of Arlington Heights Independence Day celebration is of community interest. Two hundred thirty-two individuals gave their time in order to make it a success. The net returns which amount to $3,760.71 will be used for civic purposes, the major share going to the war memorial fund. The profit of the celebration exceeds the previous year by a hundred dollars.

This year's finance committee adopted a different plan than in previous years when various subcommittees paid their own expenses before turning over the net receipts to the general committee. Because all of the receipts are reported in full this year the previously published statement in the Herald that receipts were $3,000 greater than last year was in error.

The finance committee, comprising Henry Evans, Harvey Daggett and E. F. Laurin has filed an official report, which includes the sources of all receipts and the costs in detail showing the individuals to which the money was paid. Copies of the report are on file, open for public inspection at the office of the chairman, Dr. E. W. Baumann, the office of the community council at N. M. Lattof's, and with Mayor Goedke.

Summarizing the figures the report shows:

Gross Income	$9,900.30
Costs and Expenses	6,139.59
Operating Income	$3,760.71
*Extraordinary costs	50.00
Net Income	$3,710.71
This compares with 1944 celebration net income of	$3,664.32
Net Income	$3,710.71
To Community Council	300.00
Balance	$3,410.71
60% to War Memorial Fund	$2,046.42
40% to Park Recreation Fund	$1,364.29

*Extraordinary costs cover the loss of a first aid stretcher, which the Herald understands has been found, making unnecessary the expenditure of this item.

The number of prisoners of war stationed at the Arlington camp have been greatly increased.

Palatine voters say "O. K." to park district

Palatine voters accepted the proposed park district at a special election Tuesday. A total of 177 votes were cast of which 121 were in favor of the district, 5 against, 2 blank and 3 spoiled.

Following the canvassing of the returns by the county clerk, the board will meet for organization. The members elected are: Wm. Kehe Jr., Ed. Haseman, William Mair, Rose Mosser and Frank Hartman.

AFT to carry tenure case into courts

The Arlington Heights tenure case will be carried into the courts according to a printed circular bearing the signature of "The National Academic Freedom Committee of the American Federation of Teachers" received by many taxpayers of the Arlington Heights high school district last Saturday.

The circular asks tax payers to contact members of the citizens committee, and to telephone, write or see individual board members. "You have elected them and it is your right to make your wishes known" reads the circular.

The circular containing a resume of the charges made by the dissatisfied teachers as have been told over the radio and appeared in public print, is followed by:

"School affairs in Arlington Heights have already had national publicity. This certainly harms the reputation of the community. The replacement of the teachers who have left the school this year is going to be doubly hard. There are many teaching positions open throughout the state. Competent teachers will hesitate to risk their professional reputations in a town where there is such obvious turmoil.

"Even those few teachers who remain in Arlington Heights will find it hard to put forth their best efforts. Insecurity is a poor atmosphere for good teaching. Recognizing the above facts the accrediting agencies will not be long in making a critical appraisal of your high school.

"All parents will of course be deeply concerned over this matter but there are other items as well. A taxpayer with a sense of pride in the community cannot ignore poor school administration either.

"The legality of the discharge of several teachers is open to serious doubt. As your school board well knows, these cases are headed for the courts. The American Federation of Teachers knows that these discharges are a threat to the security of teachers all over the state. For this reason a nation wide teachers organization is going to fight this matter to the limit of its resources.

Rev. H. S. Jenkinson former Presbyterian pastor here, is dead

Rev. Henry S. Jenkinson, who was pastor of Arlington Heights Presbyterian church from 1913 to 1925, died Saturday at his home 1669 West 104th place, Chicago. Funeral services were held Tuesday with interment in Mount Hope cemetery. Among the pallbearers were Henry F. Muller and Burton Noyes of Arlington Heights.

The deceased was one of the oldest members of the Chicago Presbytery. He was ordained in Canada in 1881, came to Chicago in 1891, serving at Presbyterian pastor at South Chicago, Seventh church, Scotch Westminister, West Pullman and Arlington Heights. He retired from the ministry and moved to the family home in Beverly when he resigned from the Arlington church in 1925.

Rev. Jenkinson was born October 9, 1856, in Sheltenham, Gloustershire, England, coming to America in 1869. Mrs. Jenkinson died 13 years ago. He is survived by his two daughters, Edith and Jennie and a son, Arthur G., of Park Ridge.

Chapter '5' of Arlington's re-zoning story

Another chapter in Arlington Heights industrial rezoning story was written Monday evening when the Arlington Heights Board of Appeals entered the picture for the first time. Previous hearings concerned property outside of the village which has been before the Cook County Board of Appeals at a number of hearings.

The same interests appearing at the county hearings was represented at the village hearing and the "arguments" were unchanged. Representatives of Scarsdale-Stonegate owners asked that a brief which they had previously filed with the county be placed in the records of the local board. Attorney for the Thermal-Tite Insulation company asked the same privilege, which was granted.

The tract under consideration Monday evening forms a triangle south of the Northwestern railroad, east and south of Arlington Cement Products new building and west of the Arlington sewage treatment plant. The south boundary is the corporation line.

The owners are the Taeges, Thermal-Tite Insulation Co. and the Kirchhoff interests. There were a wealth of attorneys Monday evening. Representing the objectors were Attorneys Paul E. Collins, Peter B. Atwood and Harvey M. Adams. Attorney Wild represented Mr. Kirchhoff, the Insulation Co. had their own attorney present, making five in all. "With so many attorneys involved, naturally no agreement could be reached," said one of the appeal board members.

The appeal board met immediately after the hearing, made a decision, which with the accompanying briefs, will be presented to the Arlington Heights village board Monday evening.

There were frequent references to the property owned by the petitioners that lies outside of corporate limits. Evasive answers were given to inquiries as to the willingness of the owners to have their property annexed to the village so that it would be under the direct control of the municipal authorities. Attorney for the Thermal-Tite asked, "Why should we, the village has been fighting us all of the time?" Another attorney said, "Why should we stick out our necks to further control?"

As chapter after chapter is being compiled in the zoning troubles of the south-east part of the village, the city wide zoning plan seems too hot to touch.

Lightning causes $7,000 fire loss in Addison township

A barn and contents, owned by H. C. Rosenwinkel on Lombard road in Addison township, were completely destroyed during the storm Saturday afternoon with a loss estimated at $7,000. The bolt of lightning seemed to explode as it struck the cupola of the structure and the barn was a mass of flames an instant later. Roselle and Addison fire companies answered the call but could do little except prevent a spread of the flames.

The contents included 1,000 bushels of oats, 30 tons of hay, 200 chickens and other small items. The County Mutual Fire Insurance Co., Mt. Prospect settled the loss in full Tuesday afternoon, three days after the fire.

Open meeting tonight to hear Robert Kingery

Will talk on streets, parking, zoning and recreation

Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce is holding an open meeting this Thursday evening at the village hall at 8:00 p. m. when Robert Kingery, an authority on community planning, general manager of Chicago Regional Planning Association, chairman of the Cook County Zoning Board of appeals and holder of numerous other titles, will give a talk on "The Future of Arlington Heights", with particular reference to streets, parking, zoning and recreation needs of the community.

Mr. Kingery is the man under whose direction the recent zoning hearings have been held and is thoroughly familiar with conditions here. He has made it clear that he is not coming to tell Arlington Heights people what they must do, but he is prepared to tell what Arlington CAN DO. He is also prepared to give some advice on the problems that face Arlington and many similar communities in post war planning.

The Chamber of Commerce has given a direct invitation to members of the planning, zoning and appeal boards to attend. Local realty men will also be welcomed, in fact every person who is interested in the future development of Arlington Heights.

Mr. Kingery has been furnished particular data regarding Arlington and it is expected that his talk will not be confined to generalities but will contain some pertinent statements that his hearers may or may not like.

The Chamber has waited nearly two months to get this date with Mr. Kingery and a large attendance is expected. "Do not wait for a special invitation. If interested, attend", states Carl Behrens, executive secretary.

Legion festival next week

Plans are now completed for the biggest Summer Festival in Merle Guild Post history. Commander Hume C. Young states that he expects to outdo all previous Legion festivals. The Festival opens next Wednesday evening, August 8 and continues thru Saturday, August 11.

Rides for the children, games of skill, refreshments served by the Ladies Auxiliary, the ever popular bingo game with best in merchandise, and many other attractions will interest young and old. Two booths that are expected to arouse great interest are the cigarette booth and the fresh chicken booth.

The highlight on Saturday night is the awarding of the 800 lb. steer and the 200 lb. porker to the lucky winners in the drawing. Tickets are also good for the nightly awards of merchants prizes.

Saturday night will also witness the awarding of trophies to the Boy Scouts and Cubs for their first place winning at the recent Youth Convention Parade. This will be held at the baseball field at 8:30 p. m.

A substantial share of the Festival proceeds is to be turned over to the Park Board for their recreational facilities.

School is again fully accredited

The Board of Education of the Arlington Heights Township High School has been notified by the Superintendent of Public Instruction, Vernon L. Nickell, that the school, on the basis of the annual report submitted, is again fully recognized by the State Department of Education.

The letter in part states: "I am sure your Board of Education, your faculty, your student body, and your community will want to know that in the opinion of this office, your school merits this recognition. May I congratulate your Board on its efforts to maintain adequate educational opportunity for the young people of your community. Your local community has intrusted the Board with the serious responsibility of educating and training its youth. I am sure your Board and your faculty will be satisfied only when you are offering these youth the best opportunities possible."

A somewhat similar letter was recently received from the North Central Association of Secondary Schools and Colleges, and the University of Illinois notifying local authorities that on the basis of its annual reports, the high school is again fully accredited by these agencies.

This recognition and accrediting means that a graduate of this high school will be admitted to any college or university without taking any entrance examination to those schools which admit students by the certificate method.

Donald Costain musical director leaves Arlington

Donald Costain, director of music at the Arlington Heights high school, presented his resignation to the board of education on Tuesday, July 31.

During the fourteen years that Mr. Costain has been in Arlington Heights, the high school music department has developed from one musical organization—a school band—to a group of organizations, including band, orchestra, girls chorus, mixed chorus and several smaller ensembles. All of the groups have contributed extensively to the musical life of the school and community.

Not only have the pupils benefitted from Mr. Costain's direction, but also the citizens of the community have derived pleasure from the Fall Festival, Spring Concert and other public appearances of the many musical groups.

Mr. Costain's contributions to the musical life of the school and community are going to be greatly missed. Especially will the students, whose musical appreciation has been deepened by his influence, regret his leaving.

Redwings host to Indiana team this Sunday

Win over Navy team gives local nine 6 in a row

The best pitching effort produced by Schaefer this year enabled the Arlington Redwings to run their winning streak to six games when they defeated the Navy Shore Patrol of Chicago 2-1. By striking out 14 visitors Schaefer kept out of trouble until the 7th inning when the navy managed to score their only run.

The Redwings counted their two runs in the 3rd when Mahn sent Wahl and Schaefer across the plate by hitting a single to left. That ended the scoring for the local club. The visitors pitching was good all the way. Bill Donovan, formerly of the Boston Braves, pitched the last three innings allowing the Redwings only one hit, a single by Simpson.

Next Sunday Arlington will be trying to stretch the winning streak to seven games when they meet the Whiting, Ind., team in an inter-state game. The Whiting team is a mid west league member but has been playing through the southern Chicago area and in Indiana. There is no way to compare their record with the Redwings' achievements because the two clubs have not been playing the same opponents. The Whiting manager did say that they are coming with the idea of ending the Redwings winning streak.

Sunday's pitching assignment will probably be handled by Jim Ladd, who, in his last appearance on the mound, shut out Oak Park 3-0. Should he get in trouble Schaefer will be ready to take over.

The following Sunday the Johnson Motor team of Waukegan, victors by a 4-3 margin over the Redwings last June 17, will play here. Local fans are sure of having more good baseball for the next two Sundays.

Announce six new instructors

At a special meeting of the Board of Education of the Arlington Heights Township High School held on Tuesday evening, July 31, six additional teachers were employed for the 1945-46 school year. These candidates were selected from several hundred applicants for the positions.

Miss Doris L. Black was employed as teacher of American History to replace Miss Alice Eikenberry, who accepted a position as Associate Professor of History at Illinois State Normal University. Miss Black has her A. B. degree from South Dakota State College and her Masters Degree from the University of Colorado, Boulder, Colorado. She has taken additional graduate work at the University of Minnesota. Her teaching experience includes both high school and college positions. She comes to the local school well recommended by her former employers.

R. M. Conrad has accepted the position of Assistant Basketball Coach and track coaching along with teaching social science. Mr. Conrad obtained his masters degree from the University of Illinois and his undergraduate from Bluffton College, Ohio. For the past six years he has been teaching in the schools of this state. He comes to Arlington from Litchfield, Illinois.

For the chemistry teaching position, Raymond Fries, Spring Valley, Illinois, was employed. For the past several years he has been teaching science in the Hall Township High School at Spring Valley. He has his masters degree from the University of Illinois and his bachelors degree from Western Illinois State Teachers College, Macomb, Illinois. Mr. Fries has had eleven years experience teaching science at Lewistown, Lawrenceville and Spring Valley, Illinois.

Theodore C. Klump, a graduate of North Central College, Naperville, Illinois, was employed as teacher of physics and general science. Mr. Klump has his masters degree from the University of Michigan. Mr. Klump was formerly on the faculty of Lake Forest College and the Northwestern University as a teacher of Physics. He has had additional experience as development engineer for the Ken-rade Tube and Lamp Co., and the General Electric Co. He served for one year as pre-radar instructor in the Army Signal Corps. Mr. Klump taught last year in the high school at Detroit, Michigan.

Miss Jane Mahin has accepted the position of English instructor. She obtained her masters degree from the University of Iowa, and her bachelors degree from Cornell College. She has done additional graduate work at the University of Colorado. Miss Mahin taught English in the schools of Iowa for several years before going to Muskegon, Michigan, which position she resigned to come to Arlington Heights.

For the mathematics position, C. J. O'Donnel was employed. One of his interesting teaching positions was at Boy's Town, Nebr., before the teaching was taken over by the Christian Brothers. Other teaching experience of Mr. O'Donnell was in Minnesota and the Wentworth Military Academy, Lexington, Mo. He has done graduate work at the University of Wisconsin, Chicago, and St. Louis University. His undergraduate work was completed at Creighton University, Omaha, Nebr.

For the few unfilled positions remaining in the school, candidates are under consideration, and all the positions are expected to be filled and contracts signed in the very near future.

The high school faculty for the 1945-46 school year has been increased to 32 teachers. Last year there were 28 teachers on the faculty. These additional teachers were needed because it was necessary to reduce the teaching load for certain teachers, additional courses were added, and new services to the students offered which were not heretofore provided. Ten of the thirteen teachers already employed have their masters degree and have been very successful teachers. They come to the local school highly recommended by their former employers.

$2,000 added to War Memorial Fund here

The financial report of Arlington Heights Independence Day celebration is of community interest. Two hundred thirty-two individuals gave their time in order to make it a success. The net returns which amount to $3,760.71 will be used for civic purposes, the major share going to the war memorial fund. The profit of the celebration exceeds the previous year by a hundred dollars.

This year's finance committee adopted a different plan than in previous years when various subcommittees paid their own expenses before turning over the net receipts to the general committee. Because all of the receipts are reported in full this year the previously published statement in the Herald that receipts were $3,000 greater than last year was in error.

The finance committee, comprising Henry Evans, Harvey Daggett and E. F. Laurin has filed an official report, which includes the sources of all receipts and the costs in detail showing the individuals to which the money was paid. Copies of the report are on file, open for public inspection at the office of the chairman, Dr. E. W. Baumann, the office of the community council at N. M. Lattof's, and with Mayor Goedke.

Summarizing the figures the report shows:

Gross Income	$9,900.30
Costs and Expenses	6,139.59
Operating Income	$3,760.71
*Extraordinary costs	50.00
Net Income	$3,710.71

AFT to carry tenure case into courts

The Arlington Heights tenure case will be carried into the courts according to a printed circular bearing the signature of "The National Academic Freedom Committee of the American Federation of Teachers" received by many taxpayers of the Arlington Heights high school district last Saturday.

The circular asks tax payers to contact members of the citizens committee, and to telephone, write or see individual board members. "You have elected them and it is your right to make your wishes known" reads the circular.

The circular containing a resume of the charges made by the dissatisfied teachers as have been told over the radio and appeared in public print, is followed by:

"School affairs in Arlington Heights have already had national publicity. This certainly harms the reputation of the community. The replacement of the teachers who have left the school this year is going to be doubly hard. There are many teaching positions open throughout the state. Competent teachers will hesitate to risk their professional reputations in a town where there is such obvious turmoil.

"Even those few teachers who remain in Arlington Heights will find it hard to put forth their best efforts. Insecurity is a poor atmosphere for good teaching. Recognizing the above facts the accrediting agencies will not be long in making a critical appraisal of your high school.

"All parents will of course be deeply concerned over this matter but there are other items as well. A taxpayer with a sense of pride in the community cannot ignore poor school administration either.

"The legality of the discharge of several teachers is open to serious doubt. As your school board well knows, these cases are headed for the courts. The American Federation of Teachers knows that these discharges are a threat to the security of teachers all over the state. For this reason a nation wide teachers organization is going to fight this matter to the limit of its resources.

Rev. H. S. Jenkinson former Presbyterian pastor here, is dead

Rev. Henry S. Jenkinson, who was pastor of Arlington Heights Presbyterian church from 1913 to 1925, died Saturday at his home 1669 West 104th place, Chicago. Funeral services were held Tuesday with interment in Mount Hope cemetery. Among the pallbearers were Henry F. Muller and Burton Noyes of Arlington Heights.

The deceased was one of the oldest members of the Chicago Presbytery. He was ordained in Canada in 1881, came to Chicago in 1891, serving at Presbyterian pastor at South Chicago, Seventh church, Scotch Westminister, West Pullman and Arlington Heights. He retired from the ministry and moved to the family home in Beverly when he resigned from the Arlington church in 1925.

Rev. Jenkinson was born October 9, 1856, in Sheltenham, Gloustershire, England, coming to America in 1869. Mrs. Jenkinson died 13 years ago. He is survived by his two daughters, Edith and Jennie and a son, Arthur G., of Park Ridge.

Chapter '5' of Arlington's re-zoning story

Another chapter in Arlington Heights industrial rezoning story was written Monday evening when the Arlington Heights Board of Appeals entered the picture for the first time. Previous hearings concerned property outside of the village which has been before the Cook County Board of Appeals at a number of hearings.

The same interests appearing at the county hearings was represented at the village hearing and the "arguments" were unchanged. Representatives of Scarsdale-Stonegate owners asked that a brief which they had previously filed with the county be placed in the records of the local board. Attorney for the Thermal-Tite Insulation company asked the same privilege, which was granted.

The tract under consideration Monday evening forms a triangle south of the Northwestern railroad, east and south of Arlington Cement Products new building and west of the Arlington sewage treatment plant. The south boundary is the corporation line.

The owners are the Taeges, Thermal-Tite Insulation Co. and the Kirchhoff interests. There were a wealth of attorneys Monday evening. Representing the objectors were Attorneys Paul E. Collins, Peter B. Atwood and Harvey M. Adams. Attorney Wild represented Mr. Kirchhoff, the Insulation Co. had their own attorney present, making five in all. "With so many attorneys involved, naturally no agreement could be reached," said one of the appeal board members.

The appeal board met immediately after the hearing, made a decision, which with the accompanying briefs, will be presented to the Arlington Heights village board Monday evening.

There were frequent references to the property owned by the petitioners that lies outside of corporate limits. Evasive answers were given to inquiries as to the willingness of the owners to have their property annexed to the village so that it would be under the direct control of the municipal authorities. Attorney for the Thermal-Tite asked, "Why should we, the village has been fighting us all of the time?" Another attorney said, "Why should we stick out our necks to further control?"

As chapter after chapter is being compiled in the zoning troubles of the south-east part of the village, the city wide zoning plan seems too hot to touch.

Lightning causes $7,000 fire loss in Addison township

A barn and contents, owned by H. C. Rosenwinkel on Lombard road in Addison township, were completely destroyed during the storm Saturday afternoon with a loss estimated at $7,000. The bolt of lightning seemed to explode as it struck the cupola of the structure and the barn was a mass of flames an instant later. Roselle and Addison fire companies answered the call but could do little except prevent a spread of the flames.

The contents included 1,000 bushels of oats, 30 tons of hay, 200 chickens and other small items. The County Mutual Fire Insurance Co., Mt. Prospect settled the loss in full Tuesday afternoon, three days after the fire.

Open meeting tonight to hear Robert Kingery

Will talk on streets, parking, zoning and recreation

Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce is holding an open meeting this Thursday evening at the village hall at 8:00 p. m. when Robert Kingery, an authority on community planning, general manager of Chicago Regional Planning Association, chairman of the Cook County Zoning Board of appeals and holder of numerous other titles, will give a talk on "The Future of Arlington Heights", with particular reference to streets, parking, zoning and recreation needs of the community.

Mr. Kingery is the man under whose direction the recent zoning hearings have been held and is thoroughly familiar with conditions here. He has made it clear that he is not coming to tell Arlington Heights people what they must do, but he is prepared to tell what Arlington CAN DO. He is also prepared to give some advice on the problems that face Arlington and many similar communities in post war planning.

The Chamber of Commerce has given a direct invitation to members of the planning, zoning and appeal boards to attend. Local realty men will also be welcomed, in fact every person who is interested in the future development of Arlington Heights.

Mr. Kingery has been furnished particular data regarding Arlington and it is expected that his talk will not be confined to generalities but will contain some pertinent statements that his hearers may or may not like.

The Chamber has waited nearly two months to get this date with Mr. Kingery and a large attendance is expected. "Do not wait for a special invitation. If interested, attend", states Carl Behrens, executive secretary.

Legion festival next week

Plans are now completed for the biggest Summer Festival in Merle Guild Post history. Commander Hume C. Young states that he expects to outdo all previous Legion festivals. The Festival opens next Wednesday evening, August 8 and continues thru Saturday, August 11.

Rides for the children, games of skill, refreshments served by the Ladies Auxiliary, the ever popular bingo game with best in merchandise, and many other attractions will interest young and old. Two booths that are expected to arouse great interest are the cigarette booth and the fresh chicken booth.

The highlight on Saturday night is the awarding of the 800 lb. steer and the 200 lb. porker to the lucky winners in the drawing. Tickets are also good for the nightly awards of merchants prizes.

Saturday night will also witness the awarding of trophies to the Boy Scouts and Cubs for their first place winning at the recent Youth Convention Parade. This will be held at the baseball field at 8:30 p. m.

A substantial share of the Festival proceeds is to be turned over to the Park Board for their recreational facilities.

School is again fully accredited

The Board of Education of the Arlington Heights Township High School has been notified by the Superintendent of Public Instruction, Vernon L. Nickell, that the school, on the basis of the annual report submitted, is again fully recognized by the State Department of Education.

The letter in part states: "I am sure your Board of Education, your faculty, your student body, and your community will want to know that in the opinion of this office, your school merits this recognition. May I congratulate your Board on its efforts to maintain adequate educational opportunity for the young people of your community. Your local community has intrusted the Board with the serious responsibility of educating and training its youth. I am sure your Board and your faculty will be satisfied only when you are offering these youth the best opportunities possible."

A somewhat similar letter was recently received from the North Central Association of Secondary Schools and Colleges, and the University of Illinois notifying local authorities that on the basis of its annual reports, the high school is again fully accredited by these agencies.

This recognition and accrediting means that a graduate of this high school will be admitted to any college or university without taking any entrance examination to those schools which admit students by the certificate method.

Lt. Theodore R. Smith, 24, 28 Belmont street, Arlington Heights, who was discharged from the air corps June 28, was instantly killed early Sunday when he fell 20 feet at a parking lot at 234 N. Clark street.

Donald Costain, director of music at the Arlington Heights high school, presented his resignation to the board of education on Tuesday, July 31.

During the fourteen years that Mr. Costain has been in Arlington Heights, the high school music department has developed from one musical organization—a school band—to a group of organizations, including band, orchestra, girls chorus, mixed chorus and several smaller ensembles. All of the groups have contributed extensively to the musical life of the school and community.

Not only have the pupils benefitted from Mr. Costain's direction, but also the citizens of the community have derived pleasure from the Fall Festival, Spring Concert and other public appearances of the many musical groups.

Mr. Costain's contributions to the musical life of the school and community are going to be greatly missed. Especially will the students, whose musical appreciation has been deepened by his influence, regret his leaving.

Redwings host to Indiana team this Sunday

Win over Navy team gives local nine 6 in a row

The best pitching effort produced by Schaefer this year enabled the Arlington Redwings to run their winning streak to six games when they defeated the Navy Shore Patrol of Chicago 2-1. By striking out 14 visitors Schaefer kept out of trouble until the 7th inning when the navy managed to score their only run.

The Redwings counted their two runs in the 3rd when Mahn sent Wahl and Schaefer across the plate by hitting a single to left. That ended the scoring for the local club. The visitors pitching was good all the way. Bill Donovan, formerly of the Boston Braves, pitched the last three innings allowing the Redwings only one hit, a single by Simpson.

Next Sunday Arlington will be trying to stretch the winning streak to seven games when they meet the Whiting, Ind., team in an inter-state game. The Whiting team is a mid west league member but has been playing through the southern Chicago area and in Indiana. There is no way to compare their record with the Redwings' achievements because the two clubs have not been playing the same opponents. The Whiting manager did say that they are coming with the idea of ending the Redwings winning streak.

Sunday's pitching assignment will probably be handled by Jim Ladd, who, in his last appearance on the mound, shut out Oak Park 3-0. Should he get in trouble Schaefer will be ready to take over.

The following Sunday the Johnson Motor team of Waukegan, victors by a 4-3 margin over the Redwings last June 17, will play here. Local fans are sure of having more good baseball for the next two Sundays.

Announce six new instructors

At a special meeting of the Board of Education of the Arlington Heights Township High School held on Tuesday evening, July 31, six additional teachers were employed for the 1945-46 school year. These candidates were selected from several hundred applicants for the positions.

Miss Doris L. Black was employed as teacher of American History to replace Miss Alice Eikenberry, who accepted a position as Associate Professor of History at Illinois State Normal University. Miss Black has her A. B. degree from South Dakota State College and her Masters Degree from the University of Colorado, Boulder, Colorado. She has taken additional graduate work at the University of Minnesota. Her teaching experience includes both high school and college positions. She comes to the local school well recommended by her former employers.

R. M. Conrad has accepted the position of Assistant Basketball Coach and track coaching along with teaching social science. Mr. Conrad obtained his masters degree from the University of Illinois and his undergraduate from Bluffton College, Ohio. For the past six years he has been teaching in the schools of this state. He comes to Arlington from Litchfield, Illinois.

For the chemistry teaching position, Raymond Fries, Spring Valley, Illinois, was employed. For the past several years he has been teaching science in the Hall Township High School at Spring Valley. He has his masters degree from the University of Illinois and his bachelors degree from Western Illinois State Teachers College, Macomb, Illinois. Mr. Fries has had eleven years experience teaching science at Lewistown, Lawrenceville and Spring Valley, Illinois.

Theodore C. Klump, a graduate of North Central College, Naperville, Illinois, was employed as teacher of physics and general science. Mr. Klump has his masters degree from the University of Michigan. Mr. Klump was formerly on the faculty of Lake Forest College and the Northwestern University as a teacher of Physics. He has had additional experience as development engineer for the Ken-rade Tube and Lamp Co., and the General Electric Co. He served for one year as pre-radar instructor in the Army Signal Corps. Mr. Klump taught last year in the high school at Detroit, Michigan.

Miss Jane Mahin has accepted the position of English instructor. She obtained her masters degree from the University of Iowa, and her bachelors degree from Cornell College. She has done additional graduate work at the University of Colorado. Miss Mahin taught English in the schools of Iowa for several years before going to Muskegon, Michigan, which position she resigned to come to Arlington Heights.

For the mathematics position, C. J. O'Donnel was employed. One of his interesting teaching positions was at Boy's Town, Nebr., before the teaching was taken over by the Christian Brothers. Other teaching experience of Mr. O'Donnell was in Minnesota and the Wentworth Military Academy, Lexington, Mo. He has done graduate work at the University of Wisconsin, Chicago, and St. Louis University. His undergraduate work was completed at Creighton University, Omaha, Nebr.

For the few unfilled positions remaining in the school, candidates are under consideration, and all the positions are expected to be filled and contracts signed in the very near future.

The high school faculty for the 1945-46 school year has been increased to 32 teachers. Last year there were 28 teachers on the faculty. These additional teachers were needed because it was necessary to reduce the teaching load for certain teachers, additional courses were added, and new services to the students offered which were not heretofore provided. Ten of the thirteen teachers already employed have their masters degree and have been very successful teachers. They come to the local school highly recommended by their former employers.

Bride introduces husband to fellow employees

The picnic of the Arlington Heights telephone employees at Deer Grove Sunday was more than just a picnic. It became a reception for their chief operator and her soldier husband, Pfc. George Svetanoff, who had been quietly married in Waukegan a week earlier.

The bride explained her failure to tell about her wedding plans to the telepone rules that switchboard girls are not supposed to talk over their personal affairs while on duty. In place of a prenuptial shower the girls presented Mrs. Svetanoff with a purse.

The picnic was a great success, the lunch committee making good on their promise of two and three helpings.

Mrs. Wm. Lindhorst

Mrs. William Lindhorst was born Helen Georgia Geiman in Manchester county, Maryland, on July 14, 1902. There she was also baptized and confirmed. November 16, 1933, she was maried to William Lindhorst.

She passed away on July 20, at the age of 43 years and 6 days. She leaves in mourning her bereaved husband, 1 son, 1 daughter-in-law, 1 granddaughter, 3 sisters, 2 brothers, 5 brothers-in-law, 3 sisters-in-law and other relatives and many friends.

For the past 11 years Mrs. Lindhorst was an active member of Zion Congregation in Bensenville.

Bottlenecks slow reconversion

In the early days of the defense program, the course of production was choked with bottlenecks. Everybody talked about them. A few did something, and the result was the enormous volume of material that gave our armies quantitative and qualitative superiority over our enemies. But now, in the early days of reconversion, bottlenecks are back with us again. They are of extreme interest to every retailer. Because of them civilian goods will not be plentiful until 1946. For instance, shortage of textiles will delay such varied products as refrigerators (wrapping coils and wires), vacuum cleaners (cloth for the bags), autos (upholstery), and Venetian blinds (tape to hold them together). Manufacturers are anxious to get their models back on the markets as soon as possible. Because of this desire, WPB officials believe that wares made in the last half of 1945 will be similar to 1942 models. But because of bottlenecks, production this year will be small. Volume production will not be reached until 1946. Until then, your shelves will continue to show bare spots.

St. Peter Lutheran teacher returns Chicago call

First St. John Lutheran church of Chicago recently extended a call to Mr. Theo. Preuss to accept a position in their church as teacher of the middle grades, organist, and choirmaster. After carefully considering the possibilities and opportunities of the Chicago school and upon advice of the faculty and board of education of St. Peter Lutheran church, Mr. Preuss resolved to decline the call and remain in Arlington Heights. It was felt that the obligations and opportunities of the flourishing Arlington Heights schools were much greater.

Mr. Preuss has served St. Peter Lutheran school as teacher in the upper grades, and the church as choirmaster and organist for many years.

St. Peter Lutheran school is a religious elementary school under the direct supervision of the church. It offers a complete elementary school program and a thorough training in Christian character and citizenship. The school is fully accredited and sends its graduates directly to any high school.

The facilities of the school are available to parents in the community, who desire a Christian elementary training for their children. Tuition is paid on a voluntary basis. Further information may easily be obtained by calling the principal, Arl. Hts. 1382-M, by contacting the pastors or any member of the faculty.

Police issue last appeal to dog owners

Although a hundred or more dogs are either disposed of or taken to the Orphans of the Storm each year by the Arlington police, these seems to be more and more of them. The police do not know where they all come from.

Dog lovers, dog owners of this village do not cooperate with the police or their neighbors when complaints come in. They usually only call their dogs in and make some excuse as, "why our dog is harmless, he is a pet, likes children, etc."

This may be true as far as that family is concerned, but to a child, or a stranger to the dog, the pet is not so friendly.

Last week complaints consisted of most everything—dog bites, killing chickens, running over gardens and other obnoxious complaints.

I am making this appeal to the dog owners of this village: Please keep your dog or dogs under control. Keep them tied up, penned in, or walk them on a leash.

Owners of female dogs are especially asked not to let their dog out. There is nothing more disgusting than a "dog pack" running the streets, or the business section of the village. I see only one remedy for this: the destruction of all female dogs found on the street.

Those who have not bought dog licenses are asked to do so at once. Do not wait until the police officer calls to check up. If you have a dog not licensed the police officer will present a court notice. The same time a check on vehicle tax stickers will be made. "Be a good neighbor and make your purchase now."

All dogs that run at large will be placed in a pound, if at all possible. There is a pound fee of 50c per dog. The dogs will be held three days only before destruction. No dog will be returned if it is not licensed. License fee of $2.00, plus pound fee, must be paid.

Those who love their dogs or think anything of their neighbor are asked to control their dog.

Carl H. Skoog,
Chief of Police

High School Crowd

by CHARLES SCHILLER

By the time you read this a surprise party will have been sprung on Stu Smith. How does it feel to be seventeen, Stu? Bet you can almost feel the draft board's hot breath already!

"Roxie" has cut her long blonde hair and now looks as cute as ever with her short blonde hair. No matter how long or short the hair, she's still Roxie!

I saw "Honey" Millay and Paul Sapp at the show the other night. Paul makes a mighty nice looking sailor and Honey, of course, was as decorative as usual!

I'd give a lot to know whose picture Doris Fuhr was trying to snap at the pool the other day. She spent the best part of the afternoon dashing around the fence trying to get whoever it was in focus. Who is he, Doris?

I had a letter from Louis Hollembaek last Saturday. He is stationed at Ft. Bliss and is being kept plenty busy. He mentioned reading this column in the Herald. Glad you liked it, Louie.

Wonder what Jean Mulligan was doing to Wade Parmelee the other day? Just as I went by he let out an agonized, "Oh, these women!" Sounded pretty bad.

Found! Another girl just tiny Kay Essington's size (and just as pretty too). She's Nancy Cook and you really have to have her smile up into your eyes to appreciate her.

Question! What usher takes the manager's dog for a walk each Sunday afternoon? Answer, yours truly. Oh well, if the dog can stand it, I can!

Bette Price has gone to Eagle River for a few weeks, leaving Dick Sargent home alone. Well you know the saying "While the cat's away, est." This will bear watching.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our friends and neighbors for their kindness and sympathy extended to us during our recent bereavement.

Scouters enjoy picnic

N. W. Sub. Council Dist. 2 Scouters and their families held their out door picnic July 29th at Scout Camp Baden Powell. The weather was perfect, a bit on the warm side maybe but a slight breeze offset that. The 28 Scouters and their families that enjoyed this pleasant occasion together included among others Stanley Huntington, Scout Executive, Bill Miles, Council Advisor, Bill Davis, Arnold Hatch, Dist. Publicity, Aubrey Neville, Troop 7 Committeeman, Arlington Heights, Marty Freeman, Troop 7 Scoutmaster, Arlington Heights, F. Havraneck, Troop 32 Asst. Scoutmaster, Arlington Heights, Jim Wax, Troop 23 Committeeman Chairman, Mt. Prospect, Karl VonKampen, Troop 23 Committeeman, Mt. Prospect, Russel Smith, Troop 23 Scoutmaster, Mt. Prospect.

About 2:30 several Scouters went out to the ball field and enjoyed a game of soft ball, but finally the hot sun ran them to cover close to the cabin in the shade.

The women folks had started a soft ball game of their own with Bill Davis as umpire. This was a hotly contested game. You should have seen Mrs. Manteuful slide head first safely to first base like the veteran player that she is. The score after 5 innings stood 20 to 7 in favor of the "Amazon Sluggers".

Marty Freeman and Gordon Bichel were the champs over Pete Erbach and Walter Eigenbrod in a close game of horse shoes.

Byron Foote, program chairman had planned his program carefully.

In the sack races for the 6 to 9 year olds, Roger Corby was first Church was first and in the 12 and and Bill Osborn was second. In the 9 to 12 year olds, Russel over, class, Dennis Church was first. In the mens class Marty Freeman hopped down that course so fast that even a frog would be envious and Russell Smith followed furiously only a frog's hair behind.

The peanut race was as exciting as it was hotly contested. Tom Baker and Russel Church won first and second places respectively.

In the men's tug of war all the men were evenly divided and neither side would give in until the 2 in. rope fibres began to snap in the middle. Al Baker declared Marty Freeman the winner.

After all this activity the appetites had become so keen that nothing short of solid food and lots of it would satisfy, but leave it to the women folks who know from past experience that plenty of good food at the right time is a sure way into a man's heart had everything in readiness for the hungriest group of humans you ever saw. Stan Huntington brewed his own special blend of coffee and to insure its original goodness, he personally poured it out in cups at each table. Pop and ice cream rounded out a swell picnic lunch. About this time dusk was closing in, bringing to an end as pleasant a picnic as any one could possibly wish to attend.

A baby's start in life
by C. W. LUSSMAN
of Sieburg Pharmacy

A baby starts in life with an amount of energy and resistance to disease given to it by its parents. Then from day to day additions in the form of food, air and sunshine are made.

But there are constant dangers to the baby's welfare. Fortunately these can be offset by letting your doctor immunize the child against prevalent and rare diseases of childhood . . . polio, for instance.

When medication is required be sure that the compounding of the prescription is scientifically controlled for purity and accuracy.

Bride introduces husband to fellow employees

The picnic of the Arlington Heights telephone employees at Deer Grove Sunday was more than just a picnic. It became a reception for their chief operator and her soldier husband, Pfc. George Svetanoff, who had been quietly married in Waukegan a week earlier.

The bride explained her failure to tell about her wedding plans to the telepone rules that switchboard girls are not supposed to talk over their personal affairs while on duty. In place of a prenuptial shower the girls presented Mrs. Svetanoff with a purse.

The picnic was a great success, the lunch committee making good on their promise of two and three helpings.

by CHARLES SCHILLER

By the time you read this a surprise party will have been sprung on Stu Smith. How does it feel to be seventeen, Stu? Bet you can almost feel the draft board's hot breath already!

"Roxie" has cut her long blonde hair and now looks as cute as ever with her short blonde hair. No matter how long or short the hair, she's still Roxie!

I saw "Honey" Millay and Paul Sapp at the show the other night. Paul makes a mighty nice looking sailor and Honey, of course, was as decorative as usual!

I'd give a lot to know whose picture Doris Fuhr was trying to snap at the pool the other day. She spent the best part of the afternoon dashing around the fence trying to get whoever it was in focus. Who is he, Doris?

I had a letter from Louis Hollembaek last Saturday. He is stationed at Ft. Bliss and is being kept plenty busy. He mentioned reading this column in the Herald. Glad you liked it, Louie.

Wonder what Jean Mulligan was doing to Wade Parmelee the other day? Just as I went by he let out an agonized, "Oh, these women!" Sounded pretty bad.

Found! Another girl just tiny Kay Essington's size (and just as pretty too). She's Nancy Cook and you really have to have her smile up into your eyes to appreciate her.

Question! What usher takes the manager's dog for a walk each Sunday afternoon? Answer, yours truly. Oh well, if the dog can stand it, I can!

Bette Price has gone to Eagle River for a few weeks, leaving Dick Sargent home alone. Well you know the saying "While the cat's away, est." This will bear watching.

CARD OF THANKS

Scouters enjoy picnic

N. W. Sub. Council Dist. 2 Scouters and their families held their out door picnic July 29th at Scout Camp Baden Powell. The weather was perfect, a bit on the warm side maybe but a slight breeze offset that. The 28 Scouters and their families that enjoyed this pleasant occasion together included among others Stanley Huntington, Scout Executive, Bill Miles, Council Advisor, Bill Davis, Arnold Hatch, Dist. Publicity, Aubrey Neville, Troop 7 Committeeman, Arlington Heights, Marty Freeman, Troop 7 Scoutmaster, Arlington Heights, F. Havraneck, Troop 32 Asst. Scoutmaster, Arlington Heights, Jim Wax, Troop 23 Committeeman Chairman, Mt. Prospect, Karl VonKampen, Troop 23 Committeeman, Mt. Prospect, Russel Smith, Troop 23 Scoutmaster, Mt. Prospect.

About 2:30 several Scouters went out to the ball field and enjoyed a game of soft ball, but finally the hot sun ran them to cover close to the cabin in the shade.

The women folks had started a soft ball game of their own with Bill Davis as umpire. This was a hotly contested game. You should have seen Mrs. Manteuful slide head first safely to first base like the veteran player that she is. The score after 5 innings stood 20 to 7 in favor of the "Amazon Sluggers".

Marty Freeman and Gordon Bichel were the champs over Pete Erbach and Walter Eigenbrod in a close game of horse shoes.

Byron Foote, program chairman had planned his program carefully.

In the sack races for the 6 to 9 year olds, Roger Corby was first Church was first and in the 12 and and Bill Osborn was second. In the 9 to 12 year olds, Russel over, class, Dennis Church was first. In the mens class Marty Freeman hopped down that course so fast that even a frog would be envious and Russell Smith followed furiously only a frog's hair behind.

The peanut race was as exciting as it was hotly contested. Tom Baker and Russel Church won first and second places respectively.

In the men's tug of war all the men were evenly divided and neither side would give in until the 2 in. rope fibres began to snap in the middle. Al Baker declared Marty Freeman the winner.

After all this activity the appetites had become so keen that nothing short of solid food and lots of it would satisfy, but leave it to the women folks who know from past experience that plenty of good food at the right time is a sure way into a man's heart had everything in readiness for the hungriest group of humans you ever saw. Stan Huntington brewed his own special blend of coffee and to insure its original goodness, he personally poured it out in cups at each table. Pop and ice cream rounded out a swell picnic lunch. About this time dusk was closing in, bringing to an end as pleasant a picnic as any one could possibly wish to attend.

A baby's start in life

by C. W. LUSSMAN
of Sieburg Pharmacy

A baby starts in life with an amount of energy and resistance to disease given to it by its parents. Then from day to day additions in the form of food, air and sunshine are made.

But there are constant dangers to the baby's welfare. Fortunately these can be offset by letting your doctor immunize the child against prevalent and rare diseases of childhood . . . polio, for instance.

When medication is required be sure that the compounding of the prescription is scientifically controlled for purity and accuracy.

Youth caravan to visit local Methodist church

Four young women of the Methodist church, who have taken a special coaching course in the educational work of the Methodist Youth Fellowship program will be guests of the Arlington Heights church for a week beginning August 4 and leaving August 11.

The Caravan movement is a new development in the ranks of Church and Christian education. Under normal times the Caravan team would consist of two young women and two young men and a counselor. Due to the war situation only young women are able to make up the teams this year.

The team coming to Arlington Heights August 4 will consist of Miss Joanna Batson of Greenville, S. C.; Dorthea Wayne of Barberton, O.; Ruth Mills of Byhalia, Miss., and Miss Ellen Baumhofer of Montevideo, Minn., who is also the counselor of the group.

The Caravaners will be prepared to teach at the Sunday Church school, speak at the morning worship service, visit with the young people in their homes, speak at Civic clubs, direct informal study groups, help find and initiate service projects, lead discussions, conduct recreation, lead in Community projects, help organize youth work, suggest ways of using the church periodicals to the best advantage, and help adult workers with youth.

Each of these young women coming to Arlington Heights is coming at her own expense. Only meals and lodging are provided locally. Of course the courtesies extended to any house guest will be included. Most of these girls could take far more remunerative positions but they are willing to forego personal gain for an opportunity to serve.

A brief sketch of the members of the team is:

Joanna Batson attends Columbia college, Columbia, S. C., is vice president of her class, is in her junior year, a member of the Alpha Psi Omega, national honorary dramatics society, also a member of the Y.W.C.A. cabinet on campus. Miss Batson is prepared to lead in "World Friendship and Community Service Activities."

Dorthea Wayne attends school at Baldwin Wallace college, Berea, O.; she is also a junior and a member of Delta Zeta sorority. She is recreational leader of the Wesley Foundation Fellowship. Miss Wayne will lead in "Leisure and Recreational Work."

Ruth Mills will be a senior at Mississippi State College for Women. She is a major in English, interested in journalism, and is a member of Pi Delta Epsilon, national honorary journalism fraternity. Miss Mills is worship chairman of the Wesley Foundation at School. She is prepared to lead a course on "Jesus, Our Leader" and worship and evangelistic activities.

Miss Ellen Baumhofer is a grade school teacher in North St. Paul. She has held the offices of District President and Conference Community Service Commissioner as well as working in her local Youth Fellowship Group. She is prepared to teach leaders of the Adult group.

The Methodist Meeting House is fortunate to have so able a team come and share with them the experiences of the Methodist Youth throughout the country.

In recognition of the efforts of youth throughout the world the minister of the church will preach on: "Seeing a New World" at the morning worship service Sunday, Aug. 5 at 11 o'clock.

Hay fever sufferers: here's where to get away from it all

Hay fever sufferers are advised by the Touring Bureau of the Chicago Motor Club that relief is obtained in the Arrowhead country of Northeast Minnesota, northern Wisconsin, along Lake Superior, some parts of the Upper Peninsula of Michigan and the extreme northern part of the Lower Peninsula.

The hay fever season starts in August, usually about the middle of the month.

The following are a few locations in this territory that will afford some degree of relief to those persons who are hypersensitive to ragweed pollen.

Michigan: Isle Royale National Park, Petoskey, St. Ignace, Sault Ste. Marie. Minnesota: Tower; Wisconsin: Eagle River. For comparison the average number of hay fever days in Chicago is 32 with a high pollen count of 1006.

"Since at least one person in every fifty is definitely susceptible to pollen of certain weeds and grasses, many take their vacations during the hay fever season so they can escape to areas less affected," says the bulletin issued by the Touring Bureau of the Motor Club. "Persons planning long trips should be told of the following places that produce pollen in negligible quantities and practically guarantee normal living conditions. It should be recommended that the direction of the wind is a very important factor in determining whether an area will or will not be contaminated.

"A few may travel as far as Southern Florida or Northern New England or into the Pugent Sound area or to the southwestern plateau region of Arizona or New Mexico for relief."

Milk sales of ½ gallon jugs up 39 per cent

Consumers soon take advantage of available quantity discounts in purchasing their bottled milk requirements, reports R. J. Mutti, associate in marketing, University of Illinois College of Agriculture. Citing figures for the St. Louis, Mo., market, Mutti states that sales in half-gallon containers have increased since 1938 from less than one per cent of total sales in the market to 40 per cent of total sales. During this same period, sales in quart containers decreased from 80 per cent to 45 per cent of total sales.

Half-gallon bottles of milk have been sold at one-half cent per quart cheaper than the quart containers, thus giving the consumer an economic incentive to buy in the larger container. Every-other-day delivery of milk—instituted as a wartime transportation economy measure—has also contributed to the greater use of half-gallon bottles; the consumer who bought only one quart daily now buys two quarts every other day in a half-gallon container and saves one cent.

Many dairies have provided further discounts for purchases of milk in gallon jugs, but the current trend in the St. Louis market is for a reduction of retail sales in gallon containers. The jug is inefficient to handle because it must be washed and filled by hand; some housewives also report the gallon jug to be inconvenient in storing and handling in the home.

Chiggers

Don't be ashamed—scratch 'em as if you meant it

You see a lot of people scratching themselves every Monday morning these days. It's nothing to be ashamed of; it's not even funny. Those people happen to be susceptible to "chiggers" which crawl on them as they lie on the grass, or work in the garden, or walk through tall grass and weeds. Chiggers are really harvest-mites, so small they scarcely can be seen by the naked eye, immature six-legged worms of various mites that attach themselves like ticks to the skin and gorge themselves with blood.

"Chigger" is probably a corruption of "chigoe" and "jigger", two names for a small flea found in the West Indies and tropical America, which burrows beneath the toenails and skin of the feet to cause painful, sometimes serious ulcers.

In the insect world, mites are related to scorpions, spiders and the "grand-daddy long-legs". Some are parasitic on animals, including humans, birds and reptiles. Mites frequently kill young chickens and other birds. Some are parasitic on living plants; the best known being the so-called "Red Spider" that damages fruit trees and such garden plants as tomatoes. Others feed on dead animal or vegetable matter, and some are found in cheese, sugar and preserved meats.

The only sure cure for chiggers is time, although some people claim to get early relief from applying liquid skin or nail polish to each tiny red spot. Others use bacon rind; others turpentine. The best preventative is "flowers of sulphur" dusted inside one's clothing; particularly stockings, socks and trouser-legs.

Take Another Look

(If you think Japan can't last)

JAPAN has been thought of generally as a short-war nation—lacking the resources for a long one.

But take a look at just one Japanese hide-away, just one—Manchuria. The Japs grabbed it from China in 1931.

It's more than twice as big as Germany. About 60 times as big as Massachusetts. It has one of the richest soils in the world—producing vast quantities of wheat, corn, soy beans, rice, food.

It is rich in coal, magnesite, iron, metals. It is forested with great areas of trees for lumber.

What have the Japs been doing here in this lush and ample land? They have been hustling—for 14 years. They have industrialized Manchuria beyond belief.

They have developed its railways, its vast forests, its great mines. They have built huge power plants and factories and mills. They have made Manchuria a mighty arsenal.

From its mills pour foods and shoes and clothing. From its factories roll planes and guns and tanks.

How much? How many? No one can say. But much and many—enough to keep Japan at war for years. And bear in mind, this is just one Japanese hide-away—just one bustling corner of an empire that is 5,000 miles long and 3,000 miles wide.

Just one of Japan's arsenals—twice as big as all Germany. Can Japan fight a long war? Well—we leave it to you.

And says General Joseph W. Stilwell—

"The Jap is a shrewd soldier and a tricky enemy. His fighting tricks are countless. He has been learning them for years under the constant, unrelenting system that makes him such a dangerous opponent. The Jap is a tough, determined soldier. Japs will not surrender in masses like the Germans. We must even count on fanatical opposition from the civilian population."

Demand for Skymaster requires 400 new workers

"One of our two most vitally needed airplanes" was the statement yesterday of Lt. Gen. Ira C. Eaker, deputy commander of the Army Air Forces in detailing the "why" of the stepped-up demand for C-54 Skymaster, giant of the airways being built at the Chicago plant of the Douglas Aircraft Co. in Park Ridge.

"The C-54 occupies a key spot in our present program," said the high ranking air force officer. "Its priority is equalled only by that of the B-29 Superfortress whose attacks from high over Japan are being daily headlined in the newspapers."

As explained by Gen. Eaker, each of these ships is as vital to the success of the war as is the other. "They are like two peas in a pod," he said. "They both need each other. The B-29 is supplying one of our most effective punches in the combat areas. Its success depends to a great extent on a steady flow of supplies, men and material, especially spare parts."

"And this," he said, " is where the C-54 is showing its colors. Size and speed of these ships makes it possible to speedily transport huge quantities of materials, a vital asset to our cause."

Production of C-54's, said the general, must be increased to meet new demands for redeployment of both men and material from the European to the Pacific War Theater. "On top of this redeployment program," he continued, "we are leaning greatly upon the C-54 to transport both wounded and furloughees from Europe back to this country."

To meet the armed forces increased demand for C-54's, the Douglas-Chicago plant is now engaged in a concerted drive to add 1,600 employes, both men and women, between now and September 1. As announced by John C. Buckwalter, plant manager, an effort is being made to secure at least 400 new employes each week over the next four or five weeks. Most urgent need, he said, is for inexperienced workers who will be trained as riveters and tube benders.

American Legion auxiliary notes

Friday, July 27, the rehabilitation chairman, Iva Jones, and the president loaded the trunk of Mrs. May's car with the accumulation of clothing and magazines and the material for occupational therapy work, and went over to Elgin, taking a treat of cigarettes and candy to the veterans in the hospital.

The 100% wool filled dusty rose rayon covered and quilted comforter will be given away on Saturday, August 11, at the Legion festival, to the person holding the lucky number. The dime that wins this comforter will be well spent. The fluffy lightness, warmth and elegance will be the pride and joy of the winner this coming winter. Only one dime can win, but to get a return of thirty-five dollars plus is worth taking a chance. The time is getting shorter every day, so contact any auxiliary member and place your name in her book.

Mr. Boehler has spent the past ten days at the Home in order to get a much needed rest. Mrs. Boehler joined her husband Sunday morning and both attended morning worship at the Methodist church. A wedding dinner was served them and all the members of the Rest Home family enjoyed it with them. In the afternoon Mrs. Boehler sang several beautiful numbers, suitable to the occasion and Mr. Boehler accompanied her on the organ. They are both musical artists, so it was a real treat. The Boehlers are both blind and are known to many as they operate the magazine and confectionery stand in the rotunda of the Old Post Office at Clark and Adams sts., Chicago.

Several visitors called in the afternoon and helped to make the occasion a very lovely one. Among those who called were Mrs. Fricke, wife of Rev. Fricke, who brought a bouquet of mixed flowers, which added greatly.

Rest home notes

Last Sunday, July 29th, the Rest Home was the scene of the 25th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Boehler of Chicago. Mr. Boehler has spent the past ten days at the Home in order to get a much needed rest. Mrs. Boehler joined her husband Sunday morning and both attended morning worship at the Methodist church. A wedding dinner was served them and all the members of the Rest Home family enjoyed it with them. In the afternoon Mrs. Boehler sang several beautiful numbers, suitable to the occasion and Mr. Boehler accompanied her on the organ. They are both musical artists, so it was a real treat. The Boehlers are both blind and are known to many as they operate the magazine and confectionery stand in the rotunda of the Old Post Office at Clark and Adams sts., Chicago.

Several visitors called in the afternoon and helped to make the occasion a very lovely one. Among those who called were Mrs. Fricke, wife of Rev. Fricke, who brought a bouquet of mixed flowers, which added greatly.

Misses Mabel and Irene Haggarty, both of Chicago, sisters of Miss Carrie Haggarty, who was a former patient in the Home, spent Sunday afternoon and evening in the Home. The Rest Home staff felt it was like old times when they used to come each Sunday afternoon during their sister's stay in the Home. Miss Carrie passed away May 19th, and since that time the visits of the sisters have been greatly missed.

Miss Eugenie Crisler's nieces, Misses Frances and Amy Crisler, and their mother, all of Glen Ellyn, called too. All of these visitors and the Rest Home family enjoyed the afternoon together.

In the evening Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Shirley and their daughter, Miss Florence, also Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Shirley and their family, all of Chicago, visited in the Home with their grandmother, Mrs. Bond, and their sisters, Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. Hansen.

Thanks workers

The 4th of July committee extends their thanks to the 232 persons who worked to help make the 1945 Independence Day celebration a success. Bauman, chairman.

Just Around the Corner

Dear Jane:

When you see Vera Collard will you please say I shall always be grateful to her for asking me to the Midwestern Writer's Conference last week at Northwestern University.

I have only two regrets — I wasn't able to attend all the sessions, and I didn't take notes. I shall do both next year if it is possible.

Perhaps one of the reasons why I haven't any notes is because I was so busy just studying "the scene", I couldn't risk putting my head down even for a second. I shall have to rely on a poor memory to give you some of the highlights of a most inspiring occasion.

Vera and I met Thursday at 9:30 on the second floor of Scott Hall. The conference was then beginning its second day. My first observation (and one I was to make time and again through the day) was that women predominated, and 85% of them were grey-haired. It's understandable why more men did not attend at this time, but do women HAVE to be old before they can be authors?

At 9:45 Vera escorted me to room 220 where the Non-Fiction Workshop, conducted by Professor Walter S. Campbell (Stanley Vestal), director of the courses in professional writing at the University of Oklahoma, and Professor Roland E. Wolseley of the school of journalism at Northwestern, opened at 10 a. m. on the dot. Vera left me to attend a class on Fiction and laughingly remarked that she was really more interested in the poetry groups but so far hadn't attended one class!

The first person I spotted after I had chosen a seat near an open window, was Mrs. Tursak, the wife of the noted Edison Park artist. I beckoned to her, indicating an unoccupied chair next to mine. I could see she hadn't the faintest notion who I might be, but I didn't take long to inform her I was a friend of Winifred Schwartz, that we had met at Win's, and . . . but no more was necessary. She put her portfolio on the floor right between her chair and mine.

Somehow, I always think of Mrs. Tursak as her husband's helpmate and inspirer. It hadn't occurred to me that she might well be an artist in her own right. Of course, I asked the inevitable—"do you write? have you had anything published?" (I might add that this last question is put to everyone who attends a writer's conference. I think it must be the most important thing in he world to most writers. In fact, the professors let you know in strong language that having one's work published, and getting paid for it, should and must be the goal of every good writer.)

You can well imagine how impressed I was when Mrs. Tursak answered my question by saying, "Yes, I wrote a life of Benjamin Franklin that was published in 1930." She then reached into the portfolio and brought out the August issue of Hygeia magazine. I remembered that her husband had done art work for this periodical for years, so I presumed she was about to show me something of his latest work. I was mistaken. Instead, she turned to an article written about their little daughter, containing several pages of her drawings done between the ages of 3 and 12 inclusive. It is certainly safe to make the prophecy that we will hear more from this child. Her artistry has already received commendation from the Art Institute where she hopes to study in the fall. Looking over these drawings I thought to myself: "and there are those who say there isn't anything to the assumption that children inherit from their parents". About the same instant as this idea flashed thru my mind, Mrs. Tursak said aloud: "It's interesting to know that neither Mr. Tursak's parents were the slightest bit concerned with art." Ah, me!

Professor Campbell opened the session and directed the workshop for the first hour. He is a striking personality, and has the gift of being able to put forth his knowledge in a simple and easily understood way. Professor Wolseley took over the second hour, using Mr. Campbell's text-book, "Writing Non-Ficion" as a guide. Questions were asked from the audience, and they kept coming without hesitancy. It was exciting, stimulating and informative. I loved every minute.

Mr. Wolseley made a comparison between the writers, Thomas Mann and Sinclair Lewis. He said he thought Mann (whose name, by the way, he pronounced as if it were spelled Tomus) one of the really great writers of our day. His versatility of subject matter being one of the reasons. Lewis, he said, always followed the same pattern, that is, "debunking" of a class of people. Mann has written about eight or nine books in a long life; Lewis many more—both have a large reading public, both are successful writers, but only one will stand the test of time, in Mr. Wolseley's opinion.

Vera brought two poets to our meeting place at noon. One of them challenged a remark made be a stranger while we were washing our hands, that "technique" was THE most important thing to know in writing poetry or any other form of writing. I think Vera's friend was holding out for the importance of the "intimate subject—the soul" in writing. I'm inclined to agree with her, for it seems to me that one could have technique down to perfection, but if the work lacked a heart or soul, whatever you may call it, the words would carry no message, but merely appear as dead print.

This is becoming a small book instead of a letter, so I'll close now, and continue next week to tell you about our lunch at Willard Hall on the campus, and the instructive and enjoyable afternoon that followed.

With love, Mary.

The Mailman's Corner

by Leland Ellis Truxell

Matilda Ryan came to her door the other day as I was delivering mail down the street, and her voice came sharp and threatening to my ears. She was calling her two children who were across the street. But the children paid no attention, despite her threats and cajolery.

Whereever one goes, he meets just that type of supervisor, whose nervous impetuous nature could never compel obedience if he did not have the power of hiring and firing, and who has neither the confidence nor respect of the employees beneath him.

Farther down the street, Mrs. Klieg was also calling her children. She called softly, but the children came to her at once.

The difference between those two mothers represents the difference between good and bad supervision in all phases of life. Mrs. Klieg has a quality of leadership that her neighbor does not possess.

Personality is too vague a term. Many people have good personality yet lack the character trait which induces one person to submit to the leadership of another. Industry pays well for executives who can command obedience and respect from employees, yet keep their good will.

Self confidence and self control are important attributes to such leadership. A thorough knowledge of human nature is essential, if not basic, whether one is raising children or heading a war plant. Interest in the individual's personality traits and control of his actions through them is the right approach.

Fair and unbiased decisions where there are differences of opinion, and sincere respect for the other fellow's point of view count much. Making people want to do things your way by showing them the reason for it, tactfully, does not arouse antagonism nor envy.

All of these things help. But good supervision is made of so many different attributes acquired both consciously and subconsciously, that the old adage "Good Leaders are Born Not Made" still retains most of its validity.

Just Around the Corner

Dear Jane:

When you see Vera Collard will you please say I shall always be grateful to her for asking me to the Midwestern Writer's Conference last week at Northwestern University.

I have only two regrets — I wasn't able to attend all the sessions, and I didn't take notes. I shall do both next year if it is possible.

Perhaps one of the reasons why I haven't any notes is because I was so busy just studying "the scene", I couldn't risk putting my head down even for a second. I shall have to rely on a poor memory to give you some of the highlights of a most inspiring occasion.

Vera and I met Thursday at 9:30 on the second floor of Scott Hall. The conference was then beginning its second day. My first observation (and one I was to make time and again through the day) was that women predominated, and 85% of them were grey-haired. It's understandable why more men did not attend at this time, but do women HAVE to be old before they can be authors?

At 9:45 Vera escorted me to room 220 where the Non-Fiction Workshop, conducted by Professor Walter S. Campbell (Stanley Vestal), director of the courses in professional writing at the University of Oklahoma, and Professor Roland E. Wolseley of the school of journalism at Northwestern, opened at 10 a. m. on the dot. Vera left me to attend a class on Fiction and laughingly remarked that she was really more interested in the poetry groups but so far hadn't attended one class!

The first person I spotted after I had chosen a seat near an open window, was Mrs. Tursak, the wife of the noted Edison Park artist. I beckoned to her, indicating an unoccupied chair next to mine. I could see she hadn't the faintest notion who I might be, but I didn't take long to inform her I was a friend of Winifred Schwartz, that we had met at Win's, and . . . but no more was necessary. She put her portfolio on the floor right between her chair and mine.

Somehow, I always think of Mrs. Tursak as her husband's helpmate and inspirer. It hadn't occurred to me that she might well be an artist in her own right. Of course, I asked the inevitable—"do you write? have you had anything published?" (I might add that this last question is put to everyone who attends a writer's conference. I think it must be the most important thing in he world to most writers. In fact, the professors let you know in strong language that having one's work published, and getting paid for it, should and must be the goal of every good writer.)

You can well imagine how impressed I was when Mrs. Tursak answered my question by saying, "Yes, I wrote a life of Benjamin Franklin that was published in 1930." She then reached into the portfolio and brought out the August issue of Hygeia magazine. I remembered that her husband had done art work for this periodical for years, so I presumed she was about to show me something of his latest work. I was mistaken. Instead, she turned to an article written about their little daughter, containing several pages of her drawings done between the ages of 3 and 12 inclusive. It is certainly safe to make the prophecy that we will hear more from this child. Her artistry has already received commendation from the Art Institute where she hopes to study in the fall. Looking over these drawings I thought to myself: "and there are those who say there isn't anything to the assumption that children inherit from their parents". About the same instant as this idea flashed thru my mind, Mrs. Tursak said aloud: "It's interesting to know that neither Mr. Tursak's parents were the slightest bit concerned with art." Ah, me!

Professor Campbell opened the session and directed the workshop for the first hour. He is a striking personality, and has the gift of being able to put forth his knowledge in a simple and easily understood way. Professor Wolseley took over the second hour, using Mr. Campbell's text-book, "Writing Non-Ficion" as a guide. Questions were asked from the audience, and they kept coming without hesitancy. It was exciting, stimulating and informative. I loved every minute.

Mr. Wolseley made a comparison between the writers, Thomas Mann and Sinclair Lewis. He said he thought Mann (whose name, by the way, he pronounced as if it were spelled Tomus) one of the really great writers of our day. His versatility of subject matter being one of the reasons. Lewis, he said, always followed the same pattern, that is, "debunking" of a class of people. Mann has written about eight or nine books in a long life; Lewis many more—both have a large reading public, both are successful writers, but only one will stand the test of time, in Mr. Wolseley's opinion.

Vera brought two poets to our meeting place at noon. One of them challenged a remark made be a stranger while we were washing our hands, that "technique" was THE most important thing to know in writing poetry or any other form of writing. I think Vera's friend was holding out for the importance of the "intimate subject—the soul" in writing. I'm inclined to agree with her, for it seems to me that one could have technique down to perfection, but if the work lacked a heart or soul, whatever you may call it, the words would carry no message, but merely appear as dead print.

This is becoming a small book instead of a letter, so I'll close now, and continue next week to tell you about our lunch at Willard Hall on the campus, and the instructive and enjoyable afternoon that followed.

With love, Mary.

The Mailman's Corner

by Leland Ellis Truxell

Matilda Ryan came to her door the other day as I was delivering mail down the street, and her voice came sharp and threatening to my ears. She was calling her two children who were across the street. But the children paid no attention, despite her threats and cajolery.

Whereever one goes, he meets just that type of supervisor, whose nervous impetuous nature could never compel obedience if he did not have the power of hiring and firing, and who has neither the confidence nor respect of the employees beneath him.

Farther down the street, Mrs. Klieg was also calling her children. She called softly, but the children came to her at once.

The difference between those two mothers represents the difference between good and bad supervision in all phases of life. Mrs. Klieg has a quality of leadership that her neighbor does not possess.

Personality is too vague a term. Many people have good personality yet lack the character trait which induces one person to submit to the leadership of another. Industry pays well for executives who can command obedience and respect from employees, yet keep their good will.

Self confidence and self control are important attributes to such leadership. A thorough knowledge of human nature is essential, if not basic, whether one is raising children or heading a war plant. Interest in the individual's personality traits and control of his actions through them is the right approach.

Fair and unbiased decisions where there are differences of opinion, and sincere respect for the other fellow's point of view count much. Making people want to do things your way by showing them the reason for it, tactfully, does not arouse antagonism nor envy.

All of these things help. But good supervision is made of so many different attributes acquired both consciously and subconsciously, that the old adage "Good Leaders are Born Not Made" still retains most of its validity.

Skillet soldiers

Prepares 5 meals a day at Philippines base

Vic Saunders is cook with 5th air force

Many tales have been told about the "Flying Circus", well known B-24 bomber group which held the line against the Japs in 2,000,000 square miles of East Indies seas. This outfit flew many 2000 mile round trips to the oilfields of Borneo and Java and kept Nip ships off or under the ocean in this vast area. Combat crews of "King of the Heavies" have received their applause but there's another bunch who rate a line—the Squadron cooks. Maybe it doesn't sound romantic but for weird hours and unique conditions these boys take the prize. And if it ever needed proving, army men will tell yoh that the way to man's heart is etc. etc.

These skillet soldiers prepare five meals a day — the regular three for everyone plus a hot 4 a. m. breakfast for men flying that day and sandwiches, coffee and juices to take along on the usual 12 hour trip. Despite enough kitchen personnel it still adds up to long hours and alarm clocks set for three in the morning. About the knottiest problem is how to prepare the same old bullybeef, flapjacks or canned goods in some new camouflage without the wherewithal of savory spices or piquant extras. No GI smiles more than the stove slaves when a ship hits port with fresh meat, butter and other good things.

When the outfit was back in North Australia, despite its bleak and far-off base, the problem of variety was solved by the squadron Daniel Boones who shot wild hogs, bought and butchered range cattle and found tropical fruits.

And then the planes threw in their weight by sometimes flying back ice cream, butter, greens and famous Aussie beer from ferry trips to the inhabited parts down under.

For fun the cooks are now training fighting cocks and making pets of cockatoo and monkeys. When they want a change of scene and menu off they go to nearby Filipino farmers for fried chicken, roast pig on a spit and maybe tuba juice from cocoanut palms. The rest of the outfit has scouts trailing them.

Among the "Flying Circus" kitchen kings is Corporal Victor B. Saunders son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Saunders of Wheeling. Before entering the service Cpl. Saunders was employed by the American Title Company of Chicago. He has been overseas since May, 1943, and holds the Asiatic-Pacific Ribbon with four stars for the New Guinea, Bismarck Archipelago, Southern Philippines and Luzon campaigns, and recently was awarded the Philippine Liberation Ribbon.

Pub. Serv. Co. to stimulate development of this area

A broad promotional program to stimulate postwar industrial, commercial, agricultural, and residential development of Chicago and northern Illinois will be launched soon by the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois in cooperation with the Commonwealth Edison Company, Western United Gas and Electric Company, and Illinois Northern Utilities Company, it was disclosed by Britton I. Budd, Public Service Company president.

Backbone of the activity, plans for which have been underway for nearly a year, will be an intensive national and local advertising campaign in newspapers and magazines which will emphasize the area's numerous strategic advantages for the location of industry.

The first ad is scheduled to appear around August 8 and the series to follow will continue at least throughout the balance of 1945 and through 1946, it was said.

The sponsoring group of companies supplies electric service in Chicago and both electric and gas service in a territory embracing nearly 11,000 square miles extending from Chicago across northern Illinois.

As an aid to business, agriculture and industry, a territorial information department has been established by the group in the Marquette Building, 140 South Dearborn Street, Chicago, to assemble and make available factual data concerning the area. This research staff will cooperate in its work with local chambers of commerce, civic groups and other agencies interested in the progress and prosperity of the territory.

Designed to attract new industries as well as hold those which now operate war - production plants in the territory, the companies' advertising campaign will focus attention on the area's inherent economic and geographic advantages.

Chicago and northern Illinois, it will be pointed out, is the population and transportation hub of the nation, the "great cenral market", the leader in the manufacture of iron and steel, outstanding in the production and processing of food and a top ranking financial center. The area's "adequate supply" of labor, electric power, gas, oil and coal reserves, and other resources will also be stressed.

Italy

More Illinois men today were added to the roster of the International Short Snorter Society—the exclusive organization made up of men and women who have flown trans-ocean. They were landed at Air Transport Command's Miami Army Air Field after flying from overseas in ATC planes.

Camp Blanding, Florida was their next step. From there they go to reception centers nearer their homes for separation or furloughs prior to reassignment.

Latest Illinois "Short Snorters" clearing this ATC Caribbean Division hub include Staff Sergeant Gosta Benson, 220 S. Ioka avenue, Mt. Prospect. He served overseas 33 months, ending in Italy, and rates 5 battle stars, serving with the quartermaster corps.

From Italy comes word of Harold Binneboese of Roselle.

"I am in the temporary Army of Occupation a couple of miles from the Austrian border. We are situated on a beautiful lake, down in a valley, with mountains all around us. It is really cool down here and the nights are actually cold. I know back home the people are complaining about the hot weather and here we complain about the cold weather.

"We are to arrive in the States sometime in December and it sure seems a long time until December."

His address is Pfc. H. Binneboese, Co H 168 Inf., APO 34, % PM, New York, N. Y.

Pacific

Still moving around in the Pacific is Norman Busse of Arlington Heights.

"Those Cook County Heralds are coming in few and far between. I've been moving around a lot lately and I guess that is the reason."

His address is SC3c Norman Busse, Acorn 29, % FPO, San Francisco, Calif.

Now operating in the Pacific is Stuart Elting of Palatine. He was formerly in the Atlantic. His address is QM3c Stuart L. Elting, % FPO, San Francisco, Calif.

Artilleryman returns from 17 mo. overseas

Lt. Gene Kelly back with 2nd division

"Only the doughboys really know there's a war on, and don't let anyone tell you different." Thus spoke 1st Lt. Gene Kelly of Palatine, who returned last week from service with the 2nd division in Germany. Gene served with the 38th Field Artillery batallion. "You may hear stories of the gruesome part of war, or cold and privations. But unless he's an infantryman, don't pay too much attention to it.

"I know as an artilleryman we followed close upon the heals of the doughboys. We were right up with them many times. But our life was a life of ease compared to theirs. Many a time we would sit out under a tree, reading a book, waiting for the call to fire a few rounds. The call would come, we'd rush into our work, and then settle back to a life of luxury.

"We moved around quite a bit, landing on the Normandy beaches on D-plus-5. We went up the same path everyone else did, but walked standing up instead of crawling on our bellies. We moved on, participating in our share of battles including the holocaust at St. Lo. When V-E day arrived we were parked in Pilsen, Czechoslovakia.

"I made two resolutions while overseas, one last winter and one in the spring. I never will kick about the hot weather. It was never hot in Europe. In those cold December days during and after the breakthrough, I thought sure I'd freeze to death. In fact, there was still 6 inches of snow in Bavaria, Germany in May.

"My other resolution was made while walking in deep mud. Those spring rains turned everything into a mire and I resolved right then to never kick about dry weather.

"My impressions of Europe are unfavorable. In fact, if 'the little woman' every talks about taking a trip to Europe, dissuade her immediately. No matter what sort of a build up travel folders give you of Gay Paree and the French Riviera, take it from me, there's more beauty right on Chicago's lake front than all of continental Europe.

"Everyone that's been overseas has an impression of Englishmen, and so have I. Here's what I mean. I attended some cricket matches, having been told the sport is something like baseball. Comparing cricket to baseball is like comparing the minuet to jitterbugging. Many's the Englishman I've heard pat his hands and say, 'Jolly well played'.

"And then the height of it all occurred Christmas day, 1944. We were eating our Christmas dinner, when over came an English plane, very low. He started strafing our position, then stopped. As he went over the AA position, strafing them, they let fly and down came the Blimey plane. The pilot walked over to me, apologized, and said, 'So sorry, old man'.

"As far as my other experiences go, the 2nd division had their share. We've lived in homes, shelters and on the ground. We've had good food and bad. We've been bombed and shelled, and have had our share of close ones. We've seen plenty of gruesome sights. But I don't feel anyone but a doughboy can give many real-life tales of battle hardships."

Lt. Kelly came home wearing the Bronze Star, the pre-Pearl Harbor ribbon, and the ETO ribbon. He wears 5 battle stars for the Normandy, Brittany, Ardennes, Rhine and Central Europe campaigns. One of his close shaves occurred when Lt. Kelly's outfit was relieved by members of the 28th division just before the December breakthrough started. The 28th was the outfit that suffered such tremendous casualties in December.

Lt. Kelly arrived home July 25. He reports to Camp Grant August 26, thence reporting to Camp Swift, Texas.

Bronze star to Stan Jorstad

Awarded a Bronze Star for his work in Italy is Floyd Jorstad of Mt. Prospect. The medal was given for meritorious service with the 85th Mountain Infantry April 20, 1945, near Stunga, Italy.

"In the final action to clear an important town of the fanatically resisting enemy forces still fiercely defending some sectors in the area, Sergeant Jorstad exhibited superior leadership when intense enemy fire succeeded in halting the advance of his squad of mountain infantrymen. Moving forward during the height of the enemy small arms, automatic weapon, mortar and artillery fire, he directed the displacement of his machine gun to a position from which his men were able to force the enemy to withdraw. Then, moving his ammunition bearers up into a skirmish line, he effectively placed the fire of his squad on the enemy position, eliminating it and

"Such high courage, keen tactical knowledge, and concern for the knowledge, and concern for the completion of all tasks greatly aided in the success of this operation and merits for Sergeant Jorstad much praise and respect for his commendable accomplishments."

Stan has been in the service since October, 1943, training at Camp Hale, Colorado, and Camp Swift, Texas, before going overseas in January of this year, arriving in Italy Janury 14th.

Stan saw action throughout the remainder of the Italian campaign, fighting in the Italian Alps and Poe Valley, with the 10th Mountain and Ski troops. He has also been awarded the purple heart and the combat infantryman's badge.

A former student of the Arlington Heights high school, Stan is now on his way home to enjoy a thirty day furlough after which his division will begin training for action in the Pacific.

Skillet soldiers

Prepares 5 meals a day at Philippines base

Vic Saunders is cook with 5th air force

Many tales have been told about the "Flying Circus", well known B-24 bomber group which held the line against the Japs in 2,000,000 square miles of East Indies seas. This outfit flew many 2000 mile round trips to the oilfields of Borneo and Java and kept Nip ships off or under the ocean in this vast area. Combat crews of "King of the Heavies" have received their applause but there's another bunch who rate a line—the Squadron cooks. Maybe it doesn't sound romantic but for weird hours and unique conditions these boys take the prize. And if it ever needed proving, army men will tell yoh that the way to man's heart is etc. etc.

These skillet soldiers prepare five meals a day — the regular three for everyone plus a hot 4 a. m. breakfast for men flying that day and sandwiches, coffee and juices to take along on the usual 12 hour trip. Despite enough kitchen personnel it still adds up to long hours and alarm clocks set for three in the morning. About the knottiest problem is how to prepare the same old bullybeef, flapjacks or canned goods in some new camouflage without the wherewithal of savory spices or piquant extras. No GI smiles more than the stove slaves when a ship hits port with fresh meat, butter and other good things.

When the outfit was back in North Australia, despite its bleak and far-off base, the problem of variety was solved by the squadron Daniel Boones who shot wild hogs, bought and butchered range cattle and found tropical fruits.

And then the planes threw in their weight by sometimes flying back ice cream, butter, greens and famous Aussie beer from ferry trips to the inhabited parts down under.

For fun the cooks are now training fighting cocks and making pets of cockatoo and monkeys. When they want a change of scene and menu off they go to nearby Filipino farmers for fried chicken, roast pig on a spit and maybe tuba juice from cocoanut palms. The rest of the outfit has scouts trailing them.

Among the "Flying Circus" kitchen kings is Corporal Victor B. Saunders son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Saunders of Wheeling. Before entering the service Cpl. Saunders was employed by the American Title Company of Chicago. He has been overseas since May, 1943, and holds the Asiatic-Pacific Ribbon with four stars for the New Guinea, Bismarck Archipelago, Southern Philippines and Luzon campaigns, and recently was awarded the Philippine Liberation Ribbon.

The Allied florists of Chicago were commissioned to fashion the Purple Heart in a floral design for presentation ceremonies and for memorial rites for servicemen killed in action. The heart of solid purple blooms has a border of white flowers and a head of George Washington, all combined to accurately stimulate the medal itself.

There are 900 Allied florists in the Chicago area whose conception of the Purple Heart in flowers was officially approved by the National Order of the Purple Heart, which maintains headquarters at Washington, D. C.

Pub. Serv. Co. to stimulate development of this area

A broad promotional program to stimulate postwar industrial, commercial, agricultural, and residential development of Chicago and northern Illinois will be launched soon by the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois in cooperation with the Commonwealth Edison Company, Western United Gas and Electric Company, and Illinois Northern Utilities Company, it was disclosed by Britton I. Budd, Public Service Company president.

Backbone of the activity, plans for which have been underway for nearly a year, will be an intensive national and local advertising campaign in newspapers and magazines which will emphasize the area's numerous strategic advantages for the location of industry.

The first ad is scheduled to appear around August 8 and the series to follow will continue at least throughout the balance of 1945 and through 1946, it was said.

The sponsoring group of companies supplies electric service in Chicago and both electric and gas service in a territory embracing nearly 11,000 square miles extending from Chicago across northern Illinois.

As an aid to business, agriculture and industry, a territorial information department has been established by the group in the Marquette Building, 140 South Dearborn Street, Chicago, to assemble and make available factual data concerning the area. This research staff will cooperate in its work with local chambers of commerce, civic groups and other agencies interested in the progress and prosperity of the territory.

Designed to attract new industries as well as hold those which now operate war - production plants in the territory, the companies' advertising campaign will focus attention on the area's inherent economic and geographic advantages.

Chicago and northern Illinois, it will be pointed out, is the population and transportation hub of the nation, the "great cenral market", the leader in the manufacture of iron and steel, outstanding in the production and processing of food and a top ranking financial center. The area's "adequate supply" of labor, electric power, gas, oil and coal reserves, and other resources will also be stressed.

Italy

More Illinois men today were added to the roster of the International Short Snorter Society—the exclusive organization made up of men and women who have flown trans-ocean. They were landed at Air Transport Command's Miami Army Air Field after flying from overseas in ATC planes.

Camp Blanding, Florida was their next step. From there they go to reception centers nearer their homes for separation or furloughs prior to reassignment.

Latest Illinois "Short Snorters" clearing this ATC Caribbean Division hub include Staff Sergeant Gosta Benson, 220 S. Ioka avenue, Mt. Prospect. He served overseas 33 months, ending in Italy, and rates 5 battle stars, serving with the quartermaster corps.

From Italy comes word of Harold Binneboese of Roselle.

"I am in the temporary Army of Occupation a couple of miles from the Austrian border. We are situated on a beautiful lake, down in a valley, with mountains all around us. It is really cool down here and the nights are actually cold. I know back home the people are complaining about the hot weather and here we complain about the cold weather.

"We are to arrive in the States sometime in December and it sure seems a long time until December."

His address is Pfc. H. Binneboese, Co H 168 Inf., APO 34, % PM, New York, N. Y.

Still moving around in the Pacific is Norman Busse of Arlington Heights.

"Those Cook County Heralds are coming in few and far between. I've been moving around a lot lately and I guess that is the reason."

His address is SC3c Norman Busse, Acorn 29, % FPO, San Francisco, Calif.

Now operating in the Pacific is Stuart Elting of Palatine. He was formerly in the Atlantic. His address is QM3c Stuart L. Elting, % FPO, San Francisco, Calif.

Artilleryman returns from 17 mo. overseas

Lt. Gene Kelly back with 2nd division

"Only the doughboys really know there's a war on, and don't let anyone tell you different." Thus spoke 1st Lt. Gene Kelly of Palatine, who returned last week from service with the 2nd division in Germany. Gene served with the 38th Field Artillery batallion. "You may hear stories of the gruesome part of war, or cold and privations. But unless he's an infantryman, don't pay too much attention to it.

"I know as an artilleryman we followed close upon the heals of the doughboys. We were right up with them many times. But our life was a life of ease compared to theirs. Many a time we would sit out under a tree, reading a book, waiting for the call to fire a few rounds. The call would come, we'd rush into our work, and then settle back to a life of luxury.

"We moved around quite a bit, landing on the Normandy beaches on D-plus-5. We went up the same path everyone else did, but walked standing up instead of crawling on our bellies. We moved on, participating in our share of battles including the holocaust at St. Lo. When V-E day arrived we were parked in Pilsen, Czechoslovakia.

"I made two resolutions while overseas, one last winter and one in the spring. I never will kick about the hot weather. It was never hot in Europe. In those cold December days during and after the breakthrough, I thought sure I'd freeze to death. In fact, there was still 6 inches of snow in Bavaria, Germany in May.

"My other resolution was made while walking in deep mud. Those spring rains turned everything into a mire and I resolved right then to never kick about dry weather.

"My impressions of Europe are unfavorable. In fact, if 'the little woman' every talks about taking a trip to Europe, dissuade her immediately. No matter what sort of a build up travel folders give you of Gay Paree and the French Riviera, take it from me, there's more beauty right on Chicago's lake front than all of continental Europe.

"Everyone that's been overseas has an impression of Englishmen, and so have I. Here's what I mean. I attended some cricket matches, having been told the sport is something like baseball. Comparing cricket to baseball is like comparing the minuet to jitterbugging. Many's the Englishman I've heard pat his hands and say, 'Jolly well played'.

"And then the height of it all occurred Christmas day, 1944. We were eating our Christmas dinner, when over came an English plane, very low. He started strafing our position, then stopped. As he went over the AA position, strafing them, they let fly and down came the Blimey plane. The pilot walked over to me, apologized, and said, 'So sorry, old man'.

"As far as my other experiences go, the 2nd division had their share. We've lived in homes, shelters and on the ground. We've had good food and bad. We've been bombed and shelled, and have had our share of close ones. We've seen plenty of gruesome sights. But I don't feel anyone but a doughboy can give many real-life tales of battle hardships."

Lt. Kelly came home wearing the Bronze Star, the pre-Pearl Harbor ribbon, and the ETO ribbon. He wears 5 battle stars for the Normandy, Brittany, Ardennes, Rhine and Central Europe campaigns. One of his close shaves occurred when Lt. Kelly's outfit was relieved by members of the 28th division just before the December breakthrough started. The 28th was the outfit that suffered such tremendous casualties in December.

Lt. Kelly arrived home July 25. He reports to Camp Grant August 26, thence reporting to Camp Swift, Texas.

Bronze star to Stan Jorstad

Awarded a Bronze Star for his work in Italy is Floyd Jorstad of Mt. Prospect. The medal was given for meritorious service with the 85th Mountain Infantry April 20, 1945, near Stunga, Italy.

"In the final action to clear an important town of the fanatically resisting enemy forces still fiercely defending some sectors in the area, Sergeant Jorstad exhibited superior leadership when intense enemy fire succeeded in halting the advance of his squad of mountain infantrymen. Moving forward during the height of the enemy small arms, automatic weapon, mortar and artillery fire, he directed the displacement of his machine gun to a position from which his men were able to force the enemy to withdraw. Then, moving his ammunition bearers up into a skirmish line, he effectively placed the fire of his squad on the enemy position, eliminating it and

"Such high courage, keen tactical knowledge, and concern for the knowledge, and concern for the completion of all tasks greatly aided in the success of this operation and merits for Sergeant Jorstad much praise and respect for his commendable accomplishments."

Stan has been in the service since October, 1943, training at Camp Hale, Colorado, and Camp Swift, Texas, before going overseas in January of this year, arriving in Italy Janury 14th.

Stan saw action throughout the remainder of the Italian campaign, fighting in the Italian Alps and Poe Valley, with the 10th Mountain and Ski troops. He has also been awarded the purple heart and the combat infantryman's badge.

A former student of the Arlington Heights high school, Stan is now on his way home to enjoy a thirty day furlough after which his division will begin training for action in the Pacific.

GI stowaway

12-year-old Polish boy comes home with GIs; fate up to U.S.

Seek to adopt pal of C Btry., 38th FA Bn

Joe was 7 years old when the war broke out and the Germans entered Korzennae, Poland. The Nazis killed his mother, his father left to fight with the guerillas, his 14 year old sister was grabbed by the Nazis, and finally Joe, at 10½, was taken away to work 15 hours a day on a German farm.

Joe was at Frienenhagen, Germany, when C Battery, 38 Field Artillery, 2nd Infantry Division, moved in with 1st Lt. Francis E. Kelly of Palatine as executive officer. Joe was immediately taken to the hearts of the artillerymen and he became the greatest morale-builder the outfit ever had.

Last week C Battery came home, bringing Joe with them. One of the GIs was slated to adopt him. But immigration authorities delayed the 12 year old's entry to the U. S. They wanted to know more about him. And here it is.

Nazis kill his mother

Joseph Eugene Peramba was born in Kerzennae, near Krakow, Poland, in 1932. His mother was never completely well, and was in bed when the Germans arrived that day in 1939. They wanted to search the house and demanded that she show them around.

But Mrs. Peramba was too ill to get up and refused. The Nazis then kicked and beat her before they proceeded to ransack the house. She died the next day.

Joe's father hid in the woods when the Germans arrived and joined the newly-formed guerilla bands roving about the country, sabotaging the German war effort whenever they could. For the next 3 years Joe and the other children of the town took turns taking food to the Polish patriots hiding in the woods. The Germans arrived at Joe's house a second time, taking his 14 year old sister with them. It was the last Joe ever heard of her.

Joe caught for labor battalion

Next trip the Nazis caught Joe and his brother for labor battalions in Germany. These Polish and other people were consigned to work in factories or farms, and Joe was sent to a farm at Frienenhagen, Germany, where he worked for 15 months.

Joe at 10½ put in a 15 hour day from 6 in the morning 'til 9 at night. He did all types of work, jobs that were left untouched by German children. True to the rule of the conquered, the Nazi children played and went to school, while Joe and others like him worked all day.

In March of this year American forces were advancing on Frienenhagen. U. S. planes opened the attack with several raids in which Joe was initiated. He learned to dig fox-holes and became used to falling bombs and shell fire.

Joe greets Yanks

Easter Sunday, the 38th Field Artillery took up positions in Frienenhagen. Joe immediately made friends with the Americans. He couldn't talk English, had no shoes, and was dressed in rags. He was underfed and tired.

C Battery had been traveling fast and hadn't eaten any hot meals for 2 days. As they stopped outside Frienenhagen the mess sergeant cooked a steaming hot dinner, with even a selection of 2 kinds of meat.

Joe sat down and proceeded to eat as big a meal as had ever been set before him. He was hungry and his enthusiasm for the American food brought many a smile to GI faces.

That night Joe returned to his farm, with the admonition of the Yanks to show up early next morning for breakfast. He did and from then on Joe Peramba had 100 foster fathers in C Battery, 38th FA.

Joe needs clothes

Clothes were first in order for the newest member of Uncle Sam's forces. A complete uniform was cut down to Joe's size. The well-known Indianhead shoulder patch was put on, plus his T-5 rating. It was now Cpl. Joe.

In the course of time Joe was awarded an ETO ribbon with one battle star, a Good Conduct ribbon, and sharpshooter's medal. Metropolitan press stories told of how Joe had earned the sharpshooter award. Truth of the story is that the medal belonged to Lt. Kelly, who had earned it at Camp Shelby, Mississippi, in training days. It was Joe's first decoration and he prizes it. Joe also wears the divisional patch.

As the unit moved on through Germany, and into Czechoslovakia, Joe moved with them. He lived, ate and traveled with the battery. He had 100 foster fathers, and C Battery had a morale booster far better than any one-night USO show or letter from home.

The boys fathered him, took him in hand, taught him English. Joe was quick to pick up American slang and make himself understood. He already spoke German and Polish fluently, and could "get along" in Russian and Czechoslovakian through his association with boys in labor gangs.

Joe's a veteran

When the first Nazi planes appeared over C Battery Joe was one of the first to complete his fox-hole. His little arms kept the shovel and dirt flying.

Joe lived with the mess crew, riding in the mess truck. He was always first in the chow line and became a husky youngster, filling out his GI uniform perfectly. He was a pal of everyone. One of the favorite greetings to him was, "What you know Joe" And he'd answer "Don't know nothin' ".

One of Joe's greatest moments occurred at the late mess one day in Germany. He had been sitting with Lt. Kelly, the last to eat. As Gene left he told Joe to tell the German prisoners to clean off the table and wash the dishes. That was Joe's crowning glory.

He was always interested in the work of the battery and liked American vehicles. Whenever Lt. Kelly was driving somewhere Joe would always ask to go along. And Gene rarely refused him. War's end found C Battery in Pilsen, Czechoslovakia. Joe was still with them.

When it came time to pull out for France and home, C Battery wondered what to do with Joe. There was no Polish government with which to deal. And besides probably no one that knew Joe in Korzennae was still alive. The Nazis had gone through killing everyone in sight.

He comes home

Then came the decision of the GIs to bring Joe home. Plans were laid and tension was at a high pitch as C Battery lined up to go aboard the Marine Panther transport waiting at LaHavre, France. All eyes of artillerymen aboard were fixed on the dock, as were all other men still ashore.

The Battery poured aboard and the ship left port the next morning. After 3 hours at sea out came Joe before the popping eyes of the boat commander. Surprise and vocabulary flew hot and heavy that day but Joe was aboard and headed for "home."

The GIs had Joe all pressed, shined and polished when immigration authorities came aboard at New York. A hearing was immediately held where according to New York press reports, a "legally-minded cannoneer" informed authorities that Joe had visible means of support. The hat had been passed among the men of the regiment, raising $400. An additional $600 was pledged.

Biggest obstacle of all was who in this country would adopt Joe, and that question was answered by Cpl. Leroy Ritchie, of Tulsa, Oklahoma. Cpl. Ritchie, a former school teacher, is married, but has no children.

At present Joe's case is up before the U. S. attorney general. He will probably be the one to make final decision whether Joe can stay in the States. If the decision is negative C Battery plans a vigorous protest and vows a "fight to the finish" to keep little Joe.

TO STAY 6 MONTHS

Attorney General Clark of Washington, D. C., has announced that Joe Peramba is going to get to stay in this country at least six months. He has been granted a six months visitor's permit to await possible contact with relatives in Poland. At the end of that time Joe may be adopted by one of the members of C Battery, 38th Field Artillery.

12-year-old Polish boy comes home with GIs; fate up to U.S.

Seek to adopt pal of C Btry., 38th FA Bn

Joe was 7 years old when the war broke out and the Germans entered Korzennae, Poland. The Nazis killed his mother, his father left to fight with the guerillas, his 14 year old sister was grabbed by the Nazis, and finally Joe, at 10½, was taken away to work 15 hours a day on a German farm.

Joe was at Frienenhagen, Germany, when C Battery, 38 Field Artillery, 2nd Infantry Division, moved in with 1st Lt. Francis E. Kelly of Palatine as executive officer. Joe was immediately taken to the hearts of the artillerymen and he became the greatest morale-builder the outfit ever had.

Last week C Battery came home, bringing Joe with them. One of the GIs was slated to adopt him. But immigration authorities delayed the 12 year old's entry to the U. S. They wanted to know more about him. And here it is.

Nazis kill his mother

Joseph Eugene Peramba was born in Kerzennae, near Krakow, Poland, in 1932. His mother was never completely well, and was in bed when the Germans arrived that day in 1939. They wanted to search the house and demanded that she show them around.

But Mrs. Peramba was too ill to get up and refused. The Nazis then kicked and beat her before they proceeded to ransack the house. She died the next day.

Joe's father hid in the woods when the Germans arrived and joined the newly-formed guerilla bands roving about the country., sabotaging the German war effort whenever they could. For the next 3 years Joe and the other children of the town took turns taking food to the Polish patriots hiding in the woods. The Germans arrived at Joe's house a second time, taking his 14 year old sister with them. It was the last Joe ever heard of her.

Joe caught for labor battalion

Next trip the Nazis caught Joe and his brother for labor battalions in Germany. These Polish and other people were consigned to work in factories or farms, and Joe was sent to a farm at Frienenhagen, Germany, where he worked for 15 months.

TO STAY 6 MONTHS

Attorney General Clark of Washington, D. C., has announced that Joe Peramba is going to get to stay in this country at least six months. He has been granted a six months visitor's permit to await possible contact with relatives in Poland. At the end of that time Joe may be adopted by one of the members of C Battery, 38th Field Artillery.

Joe at 10½ put in a 15 hour day from 6 in the morning 'til 9 at night. He did all types of work, jobs that were left untouched by German children. True to the rule of the conquered, the Nazi children played and went to school, while Joe and others like him worked all day.

In March of this year American forces were advancing on Frienenhagen. U. S. planes opened the attack with several raids in which Joe was initiated. He learned to dig fox-holes and became used to falling bombs and shell fire.

Joe greets Yanks

Easter Sunday, the 38th Field Artillery took up positions in Frienenhagen. Joe immediately made friends with the Americans. He couldn't talk English, had no shoes, and was dressed in rags. He was underfed and tired.

C Battery had been traveling fast and hadn't eaten any hot meals for 2 days. As they stopped outside Frienenhagen the mess sergeant cooked a steaming hot dinner, with even a selection of 2 kinds of meat.

Joe sat down and proceeded to eat as big a meal as had ever been set before him. He was hungry and his enthusiasm for the American food brought many a smile to GI faces.

That night Joe returned to his farm, with the admonition of the Yanks to show up early next morning for breakfast. He did and from then on Joe Peramba had 100 foster fathers in C Battery, 38th FA.

Clothes were first in order for the newest member of Uncle Sam's forces. A complete uniform was cut down to Joe's size. The well-known Indianhead shoulder patch was put on, plus his T-5 rating. It was now Cpl. Joe.

Study feeding of molasses to beef cattle

The effect of molasses and molasses feed on quality of beef has been reported by R. J. Webb and Sleeter Bull of the University of Illinois College of Agriculture following experiments with 30 choice yearling feeder steers, fed for 150 days on varied rations of molasses with and without grain.

Webb and Bull found that in the fattening ration the substitution of molasses for all the corn reduced the rate of gain and increased the amounts of concentrates and roughage to produce 100 pounds of gain.

They learned also that the molasses reduced considerably the market grade of the slaughter cattle, increased the shrink, decreased the dressing percentage and lowered the market grade of the carcasses about one-third to two-thirds of a grade.

The substitution of molasses feed for corn, soybean oilmeal and alfalfa hay had no effect on the rate of gain or the amounts of concentrates and silage to produce 100 pounds of gain, but did increase the hay requirement 50 per cent, according to the experiment station investigators. They found that the molasses feed had an infuence similar to that of the molasses on the grade, shrink, dressing percentage and market grade of the carcass.

More details of the study are printed in Bulletin 510, "Effect of Molasses and Molasses Feed on Quality of Beef." Copies are available upon request to the College of Agriculture, Urbana.

Season at hand to use control with webworm

Among the galaxy of insects this season, the fall webworm has put in its appearance. The female webworm, a winged insect and not to be confused with the cankerworm, lays its eggs on leaves of shrubs and trees. The young webworms are now hatching, and newly formed web clusters can be observed.

Webworms prefer to attack box elder foliage but will feed on almost any tree, except possibly oak. When found on shrubs, they can be picked off and destroyed.

M. D. Farrar, research entomologist, Illinois State Natural History Survey, points out that control can be obtained by spraying the trees when the webs appear. He recommends a mixture of one pound of arsenate of lead and one pound of hydrated lime in 25 gallons of water. Some tree growers have found effective a torch made of kerosene-soaked rags wired to the end of a long stick. But with this method care must be observed not to do permanent damage to the tree by burning the leaves and branches.

Lend-lease promotes exports from U.S.

"That increased exports played a large part in increased wartime business activity and strong markets for farm products is revealed by figures on foreign trade recently released by the United States Department of Commerce. The value of domestic exports increased from 3.1 billion dollars in 1939 to 14.1 billion dollars in 1944, or by nearly five times.

"Most of this increase reflected lend-lease operations of the government, for out of total exports in 1944, 11.3 billion dollars were financed by lend-lease and only 2.8 billion dollars were handled otherwise. Thus non-lend-lease exports in 1944 were lower than the total in 1939.

"As lend-lease operations decline our exports will fall off rapidly," according to L. J. Norton, acting head, department of Agricultural economics, University of Illinois College of Agriculture. "To maintain business activity and prices, domestic markets must absorb these goods. The big demand for consumer durable goods of all kinds will tend to offset the loss in exports in the immediate post-war period.

"Imports for consumption increased much less than exports. They rose from 2.3 billion bollars in 1939 to 3.9 billion in 1944. Of this total, two billion came from North America countries and 900 million from South America. The situation of a huge increase in exports and a small increase in imports cannot continue after lend-lease ends. In fact, during the first quarter of 1945, exports decreased and imports increased.

"The volume of our imports, which consist chiefly of various kinds of raw materials, will depend largely on business activity here. With the probability of a period of active business in the United States for several years, we are likely to increase imports as various foreign countries become available as suppliers.

"So far as agricultural products were concerned, exports in 1944 were largely made up of processed products rather than raw materials. For example, we exported 535 million dollars worth of meat products and only 115 million dollars worth of unmanufactured cotton, 260 million dollars worth of dairy products and only 16 million dollars worth of wheat. This reflected wartime feeding our allies.

"The quantities of specific items exported in 1944 include 1,061,516 (500-pound) bales of cotton, 280,189,000 pounds of tobacco, 10,029,000 bushels of wheat, 10,231,000 bushels of corn, 510,000 bushels of apples, 5,536,479,000 pounds of meat products, 858,432,000 pounds of lard, 260,372,000 pounds of dairy products excluding fresh milk, 16,916,000 barrels of wheat flour and 32,131,000 pounds of sugar. Also $165,312,000 worth of agricultural machinery and equipment were exported in 1944.

"How about specific imports in 1944? These included only 33,000 pounds of raw silk, 121,328,000 bushels of wheat, 31,686,000 bunches of bananas, 681,712,000 pounds of cocoa or cacao beans, 2,606,716,000 pounds of coffee, 106,762,000 pounds of edible vegetable oils and 7,778,259,000 pounds of sugar.

Aside from the wheat, which came from Canada where feed supplies were short in 1944, these products are chiefly of tropical or semi-tropical origin as is usual for imports of agricultural products. As shipping permits increased imports and more countries become available as suppliers, larger quantities of some of these products will come in.

The item which will most directly affect Illinois farm production is vegetable oils. Imports of these nearly doubled in 1944 and will undoubtedly increase more as suppliers in the southwest Pacific open up to our trade. This will of course affect the demand for soybean oil, which has been expanded during wartime in an effort to offset reduced imports and the increased demands for vegetable oils."

File applications for beef subsidies now

The acting chairman of the Cook county AAA Committee, William A. Hinz, wishes to inform all beef producers that supplies relating to the Beef Subsidy Payment Program have reached the county office. The county committee is now in a position to review applications and approve the same when the substantiating evidence is acceptable. Should it not be acceptable, additional evidence may be required.

Payments at the rate of 50 cents per hundredweight shall be made only to eligible feeders and eligible slaughterers where eligible beef animals sold for slaughter are to be slaughtered. Applications shall be filed in the office of the county committee in the county in which the feeder's farm is considered to be located for the purpose of the Agricultural Conservation Program. The county committee is anxious to receive applications and evidence to determine whether it meets the requirements outlined in the procedure. Sight drafts for making these payments will be issued when the eligibilty of the cattle has been determined by the committee.

Mr. Hinz stated that for sales made from May 19, 1945 to June 30, 1945, inclusive, the application must be filed on or before August 31, 1945; for sales made on and after July 1, 1945, until the offer is withdrawn, the application must be filed within 60 days from the date of sale; provided, that not more than one application by an applicant may be filed in each calendar month.

Evidence submitted shall be attached to the county office copy of the application, or if the applicant requests the return of such evidence, it must be understood that this evidence is to be retained for a period of not less than two years and furnished to the Commodity Credit Corporation for audit upon request.

Gives method of checking costs of milk production

Several methods by which current milk costs can be determined are explained in a new bulletin issued by the University of Illinois College of Agriculture. Although 15 items comprise the various expenses that enter into the cost of producing milk, feed expenses make up 53.9 per cent and man labor 18.5 per cent, the remaining 27.6 per cent being composed of the 13 other items.

R. H. Wilcox, associate professor of farm management, and C. S. Rhode, professor of dairy husbandry extension, conducted a survey on 90 Illinois dairy farms in the Chicago milkshed. They state that a "knowledge of the kinds and amounts of feed fed to dairy herds, the hours of man labor required per unit of milk production, and the percentage of the net cost which feed and labor constitute gives a basis for computing, with reasonable accuracy, the cost of milk production under varying conditions."

The basic quantities of feed and labor per cow are given in the bulletin for dairy herds producing at different levels of annual milk production.

To these facts gathered on dairy herds in northern Illinois, the dairyman may apply current feed prices and wage rates to obtain current costs. The securing of costs is made easier by formulas and graphs.

The publication is divided into two parts. Part I points out how costs are computed and the factors to consider in figuring net costs. Charts are presented for computing the costs for herds at four different levels of production.

Part II discusses the effect of some production factors on costs, including the production per cow, size of herd, use of milking machines, the season and month of the year.

Within limits, high production per cow reduces the unit cost of production. Milk from cows giving between 9,000 and 10,000 pounds of milk yearly was produced at 73 per cent of the cost of milk from cows giving less than 6,000 pounds per year.

Copies of Bulletin 511, "Cost of Producing Milk in Northern Illinois," are available at the office of the county farm adviser or upon request to the College of Agriculture, Urbana.

Penicilium is treatment for mastitis

"At a recent Farm Adviser's meeting at the University of Illinois," states Farm Adviser C. A. Hughes, "it was reported by the Veterinarian Department that they had had outstanding success in the use of penicilin for the control of mastitis in dairy cows. It was found that cows starting mastitis were usually cleared up in good shape. However in long standing chronic cases where the udder was eroded there weren't very good results. Penicilin is a product lately produced from molds on corn that has been found very effective in treating wounds in the war zone. Its use has a number of limitations that are determined only by experimental work. We suggest that farmers trying to control mastitis call on their veterinarian to administer penicilin on their cases that are of not long standing.

"Also there is a cooperative agreement with a limited number of dairymen who wish to control mastitis as a demonstrator in their community. The University will furnish a veterinarian who will visit the herd and wark out a control method for this herd. Later on when some results have been secured request is made that this herd be allowed to be used as a demonstration of mastitis control. However cooperating farmers should receive a great deal of benefit at no cost to them whatever except they are required to follow out directions which will not be in the nature of expense to the dairyman. We have one or two cooperators already and possibly can take on 5 or 6 more if they will apply to this office in the not too distant future giving the location of their farm, the number of animals and the amount of mastitis they think is in the herd."

Vegetable experiment station tour August 4

A rather interesting tour has been arranged of work that is being done by the Des Plaines Vegetable Experiment Station. The tour will start at 1:30 p. m. Saturday, August 4. During this tour we will see the results of fertilizer applications according to soil tests on vegetable crops, the results of different types of weed killers on carrots and other crops, also results of insect control work. We believe that this tour will furnish an answer to many of the questions that vegetable growers are raising at this time. The tour will not only take in the station but a number of nearby farms where work is in progress. The tour will start at the Experiment Station.

New circular to describe types of weed cutters

A new circular describing homemade power cutters for weeds and grass is scheduled for publication on July 14, by the University of Illinois College of Agriculture.

The types of cutters pictured and sketched in the circular were built and exhibited by Illinois farmers at the labor-saving shows held during the late winter and early spring. The larger number of requests for additional information about the construction of the cutters prompted the preparation of the circular.

Two kinds of cutters are shown: one has a mower type of cutter bar, and the other has a revolving cutter blade. When properly built, either machine does a satisfactory job of cutting weeds and grass. Various types of mountings for the equipment are shown in pictures and drawings.

R. I. Shawl, professor of farm machinery in the department of agricultural engineering of the College of Agriculture, is the author of the new circular. Copies may be obtained soon through the office of the county farm adviser or by addressing a request to the College of Agriculture, Urbana, asking for Circular 591, "Homemade Power Cutters for Weeds and Grass."

Study feeding of molasses to beef cattle

The effect of molasses and molasses feed on quality of beef has been reported by R. J. Webb and Sleeter Bull of the University of Illinois College of Agriculture following experiments with 30 choice yearling feeder steers, fed for 150 days on varied rations of molasses with and without grain.

Webb and Bull found that in the fattening ration the substitution of molasses for all the corn reduced the rate of gain and increased the amounts of concentrates and roughage to produce 100 pounds of gain.

They learned also that the molasses reduced considerably the market grade of the slaughter cattle, increased the shrink, decreased the dressing percentage and lowered the market grade of the carcasses about one-third to two-thirds of a grade.

The substitution of molasses feed for corn, soybean oilmeal and alfalfa hay had no effect on the rate of gain or the amounts of concentrates and silage to produce 100 pounds of gain, but did increase the hay requirement 50 per cent, according to the experiment station investigators. They found that the molasses feed had an infuence similar to that of the molasses on the grade, shrink, dressing percentage and market grade of the carcass.

More details of the study are printed in Bulletin 510, "Effect of Molasses and Molasses Feed on Quality of Beef." Copies are available upon request to the College of Agriculture, Urbana.

Okinawa

From Okinawa comes word of Bob Wright of Palatine.

"I am back again and this time I can tell you something about myself, where I've been and what I've been doing.

"I was on Saipan in March, then went to Okinawa, made a fake landing, then back to Saipan, and took two more islands from the Japs, Ihiga and Aguni islands. After we finished we went back to Okinawa, and that's where I am now stationed.

"We are still fighting on Okinawa but not as much as before. The snipers are still around and they cause a lot of trouble sometimes, but they either get shot or give up. The gang goes out hunting and brings in 4 or 5 at a time.

"I am sorry I got this paper so dirty, we don't get enough water to wash.. Once in a while we sneak a little and clean up a little, but I haven't had a real bath for so long. I sure get dirty out here, can wash up and in 5 minutes am just as dirty as before.

"We got ten-in-one rations from the Jewel Tea Co. Was I surprised to be eating rations that I used to help pack at Jewel Tea. Wish I was there now, instead of here.

"I have to close for tonight as it's getting dark and we have no light of any kind."

His address is Pfc. Robert C. Wright, 552519, c-o FPO, San Francisco, Calif.

Germany

Even Florida couldn't have looked better today to a group of Wisconsin, Illinois and Indiana returnees. It was the first glimpse of their native land in many months as the big ATC plane glided over palm dotted Miami Beach and then into Air Transport Command's Miami Army Air Field for a landing.

From this ATC Caribbean Division hub, these overseas returnees go to Camp Blanding, Florida—then to a reception center nearer home for separation or furloughs prior to reassignment.

Included in the group was Pfc. Russell Golden of Palatine. Russ served with a tank destroyer battalion and wears five battle stars.

Now back in the States after seeing service in Germany is Richard Krueger of Arlington Heights. Dick married an English girl while overseas, but came home directly from Germany. She is expected to come to the States as soon as travel restrictions are lifted.

Now home on furlough after service in Europe is Robert Long, son of Mr. and Mrs. Home Long of East Maine. Bob arrived on the Queen Elizabeth last week on 33 day furlough. He then reports to Camp Grant for further assignment.

Also home on furlough from the ETO is Pfc. Elner Pump, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Pump, Ballard road, East Maine. He was overseas 6 months.

Now back in the States and expected home any day is Al Duenn of Arlington Heights. Al survived invasions of Africa, Sicily, Salerno, Anzio and South France. He ended up in Germany.

Changing his address in Germany is John Tudyman of Palatine. His address is Pvt. John Tudyman, 36770508, Ser Btry, 753 FA Bn, APO 758, % PM, New York, N. Y.

Writes of motor trip to Berchtesgaden area

Sending an account of a visit to Hitler's Berchtesgaden home this week is Bill Wensley of Mt. Prospect.

"Last week when my run to Italy was due another man and I decided to see some of the world before we came back to the battery area. Mainly because our truck was the only one which took D. P.s to Italy we did not have any one to check up on us. So we decided to make the most of it. Consequently, we took 4 extra days.

"We rode up the Fuehrestrasse in a G. M. C. It's tough going in a 3/4 ton, to say nothing of making the trip in a 6x6. Good thing we had 5 gears forward for we used them all before we reached the eagles nest. Believe me, the last 500 yards the clouds were so thick we had to use our fog light to see the road.

"And what a good road. It's only two lanes but it was still in perfect condition. On one side is solid rock while on the other—what a drop. On a clear day it would really be beautiful, but it had been raining all day and was still misty, limiting the view.

"The eagles nest had hardly been touched by bombs in comparison with Hitler's and Goehring's homes. The two homes were merely rubble. Throughout the rooms, though, you can see that they lived in ease and style.

"If you had time to explore the surrounding woods for shelters and hidden caches of the S. S. your time would be well spent. We saw some of the French Moroccans in battle dress, red fezzes and all, come out of the woods with cases of wines and champagne. Some of our doughboys found silverware and paintings. Lord only knows where they found them, but they found them. Sooner or later they'll get tired of carrying them and throw them in the weeds, or the AMG will take them. We managed to get a case of cognac for 700 marks ($70) for we had beaucoup old marks which are only good to civilians.

"I took plenty of pictures, mostly of the Alps. The scenes aren't too beautiful, but they are Hitler's home—what's left of it. The large pines which cover the mountainside have been broken like match sticks and thrown to the winds. It's unbelievable the amount of damage 300 bombers can do in one short hour. Everything has been destroyed, yet the road, from start to finish, was not touched.

"Down at the bottom of the mountains is the village of Berchtesgaden. Hitler is really looked upon as a god and the savior of Germany. They all think he was a good man and that he will be back.

"We roamed around so long that it got too dark to drive down, so we slept on Goering's porch—and froze in our sleeping bags. Next morning we went to a lake on the Austrian line. In the middle was a big castle. We stayed long enough to see the castle and go swimming.

"Our next stop was a beautiful city in Austria right in the heart of the Alps. It had hardly been touched by bombs and since the French have occupied it there are no 'Off Limits' signs. We really saw the city.

"A great majority of the people speak English and boy were they glad to see Americans. The people act and look civilized, too. The women wear high heels, stockings and even lipstick. It certainly was good to see them after these deutch farm girls who all look as if they should be wrestling somewhere. We rode a ski line that went 5 kilos up, and that is up.

"As we went to leave the French discovered our travel pass had expired so we were put under guard until they called the AMG at Munich. We then tore home and got a warm greeting from our B. C. He was going to charge us with AWOL but didn't. He did give us extra duty."

His address is Pvt. William Wensley, 36726498, Btry B 373 Bn, APO 447, % PM, New York, N. Y.

Scott Field

Changing his address at Scott Field, Ill., is O. E. Moberg of Palatine. His address is Pvt. O. E. Moberg, Sq H Bks 779, 355 AAF BU, Scott Field, Ill.

Panama

Writing from Panama this week is Emmett Doyle of Arlington Heights.

"Just a few lines at this time to inform you that I have another change of address. This one I hope is my last for my stay here on the Isthmus of Panama. At the present time I am on an island but will only be here a short while when I will then have the following address: Hq & Hq Btry, 902nd AAA AW Bn, APO 837, % PM, New Orleans, La.

"I have not received the paper since being at home and hope that it will soon catch up to me as I really enjoy reading it. The weather is a little on the hot side here and due to censorship I couldn't enjoy canning it and sending it to you.

"Have been pitching a little softball on the Isthmus, going swimming and seeing movies. I haven't missed going to the show since arriving here.

"I went to the town they call Colon last week and I don't know how to explain it, but it sure is filthy with dirt. I went to Cash street to see the Pensions and what a sight for sore eyes. I wouldn't dare explain it in a letter. It reminds a fellow of State St. South in Chicago several years back only on a 100% larger scale. I hope I make myself clear as possible.

"They do have liquor here for $4 a fifth for Canadian Club. Cheaper than the States. But I think it is too hot for liquor here as we are only about 600 miles north of the equator."

His address is Pfc. Emmett Doyle, 3 629973, Hq & Hq Btry, 902nd AAA AW Nn, APO 837, % PM, New Orleans, La.

Atlantic

Now home on leave after an extended tour of duty with the Merchant Marine is Arthur "Scotty" Warder of Palatine. Art arrived home the past week end, and expects to be home about 4 days before he leaves again for the U. K. and then the Pacific.

Oahu

From Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, comes word of Wilbur Busse of Elk Grove.

"I just received the June 15 issue of the Herald. Your article about me had a few misstatements, so I'll try to straighten them out.

"My first duty in the Navy was at the Norfolk Navy Yard in 1941. From there I went to the post graduate school of the U. S. Naval Academy in Annapolis for an eight month's course in Naval Architecture. Then I was assigned to the office of the Supervisor of Shipbuilding, USN, Pittsburgh, Pa.

"I am now attached to the Ship Superintendent's office at Pearl Harbor Navy Yard which is on the island of Oahu. My work deals mostly with ship repair.

"Incidentally, I was promoted about a year and a half ago, not just recently."

His address is: Lieut. W. E. Busse, USNR, Fleet Post Office, San Francisco, Calif.

Missing

Still missing since April 16 is Sgt. Anthony Scolaro of Arlington Heights. Tony, son of Frank Scolaro, was aboard a B-29 on a bombing raid over Tokyo when reported missing.

Queen Elizabeth was one of the first persons in history to wear glasses with a bridge fitting on the nose, according to the Better Vision institute. Previously spectacles were made like a hinge, working on a pivot. They had to be held in position by the hand when being used.

Early Eyeglasses

Queen Elizabeth was one of the first persons in history to wear glasses with a bridge fitting on the nose, according to the Better Vision institute. Previously spectacles were made like a hinge, working on a pivot. They had to be held in position by the hand when being used.

It Happened Here

We are enjoying an unusual excitement in our neighborhood; Mr. Sell, our neighbor down the street and father of the tow headed boys, has bought a telescope and set it up in the vacant lot so that all the children and neighbors may have a look at the moon and stars or anything that's showing. We never had a telescope before and it is creating quite a stir, a telescope, too, whose owner collected nickels and dimes at the World's Fair just for a look thru its six and one half inch lense. The moon is playing up beautifully tonight and the lot swarms with children and dogs; one small dog on a leash adds much to the confusion until its owner is ordered sternly to take that pup home. "And don't forget the old man with a cane and his dog," says Ed. Not the man in the moon, surely. No, just the former owner of the telescope who is helping to set it up and teaching Mr. Sell the routine. Too old and lame to go around with his instrument any longer, he decided to sell it and one day Mr. Sell had a phone call. "Would you be interested in buying a telescope?" "Now," as Mr. Sell told Ed, "that was something unusual, so I bo't it and maybe the children will learn something. My folks would never buy any new fangled thing for us boys—no car, no phone, no radio. I might have done different if they had." So he does his best for his boys, car, radio, phone and now a telescope!

'Good Night Ladies' back to Chicago

Since the spectacular success was recorded almost four years ago by "Good Night Ladies!" the Blackstone theater in Chicago, site of its original triumph, has reserved time for its return engagement which will be realized when the farce opens a limited engagement there on Monday night, August 6.

"Good Night Ladies!", which costars Stage and Screen Comedians Skeets Gallagher and Edmund Glover, has made it a practice of shattering theatre records around the nation's key capitals since its birth in San Francisco. Chicago adopted the hit and it became the city's all-time, long run champion with the spectacular stay of 100 weeks.

"Good Night Ladies!" was fashioned from the theme of "Ladies Night in a Turkish Bath", a singularly successful farce from the World War I era. It was given a 1945 streamline by Cyrus Wood, who authored several noted Broadway musical comedy hits, and staged by Edward Clarke Lilley, a favorite director for the late Florenz Ziegfeld. Howard Lang, who divides his time between movie and stage production, presented the play in association with Al Rosen.

A large and lovely cast of stage and screen favorites constitutes the supporting company, many familiar to play patrons. The matinees for the repeat run will be on Wednesdays and Saturdays, with the Monday performances eliminated, and Sunday nights added.

At Ravinia

Pierre Monteux, the foremost French conductor of the present day and permanent director of the San Francisco Symphony, will occupy the podium at Ravinia during the sixth, and concluding, week of symphony music. As final guest conductor of the 1945 season, Monteux will begin his series of four concerts on Tuesday evening, Aug. 21st 7.

For his Tuesday, Aug. 7 evening concert, the famed conductor has chosen "Passacaglia and Fugue, C Minor," by Bach-Respighi, Beethoven's "Symphony No. 4, B Flat Major, Opus 60," Berlioz' "Excerpts from Dramatic Symphony 'Romeo and Juliet,' Opus 17," Ravel's "Alborada del Gracioso," and "Rondo, 'Till Eulenspiegel's Merry Pranks,' Opus 28" by Strauss.

Two novelties are included in the Thursday evening, Aug. 9 program. One is the Handel-Akon "Passacaglia in G Minor," which has not been played before in Chicago, and the second is Paul Creston's "Pastoral and Tarantella," which was presented in 1942 by the Illinois Symphony. In addition, the program includes the Brahms Second Symphony, Franck-Pierne's "Prelude, Choral et Fugue," and Ravel's Orchestral Fragments from "Daphnis et Chloe" (first series).

On Saturday night, Aug. 11 Monteux will conduct the orchestra in Glinka's "Overture to 'Russian and Ludmilla'"; the Shostakovich Symphony No. 6; Tschaikowsky's "Andante Cantabile, from String Quartet, No. 1, Opus 11"; and "Pictures at an Exhibition" by Mousorgsky, orchestrated by Maurice Ravel.

At Sunday, Aug. 12 afternoon's performance Milton Preves of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra viola section will be soloist in the Berlioz "March and Serenade from Symphony 'Harold in Italy'." Also included on the program are Verdi's "Overture to 'The Sicilian Vespers'," "Symphonic Poem, 'The Fountains of Rome'," by Respighi, and Franck's "Symphony, D Minor."

Sparkling comedy to end season at Playhouse

"Fresh Fields," the sparkling comedy by Ivor Novello, will be the last offering of the season at The New Lake Zurich Playhouse. When a raw Australian family and a group of genteel Londoners clash, there is plenty of fun ahead. The clumsy manners of the visitors and the hauteur of the aristocrats are most skillfully drawn by Mr. Novello, but the characters are lovable and human withal. Playing dates are August 3, 4 and 5—Friday, Saturday and Sunday, and early mailing and phone reservations will assure a good selection of seats.

The players and staff at the Playhouse wish to thank everyone for the grand reception of their shows, and are eagerly looking forward to an even better season next year.

ECONOMY

Men do not realize how great a revenue economy is.—Cicero.

Frugality is good, if liberality be joined with it. The first is leaving off superfluous expenses; the last bestowing them to the benefit of ohers that need.—William Penn.

To disregard the welfare of others is contrary to the law of God; therefore it deteriorates one's ability to do good, to benefit himself and mankind.
—Mary Baker Eddy.

It is no small commendation to manage a little well.—To live well in abundance is the praise of the estate, not of the person.
—Bishop Hall.

Proportion and propriety are among the best secrets of domestic wisdom; and there is no surer test of integrity than a well-proportioned expenditure.
—Hannah More.

It Happened Here

We are enjoying an unusual excitement in our neighborhood; Mr. Sell, our neighbor down the street and father of the tow headed boys, has bought a telescope and set it up in the vacant lot so that all the children and neighbors may have a look at the moon and stars or anything that's showing. We never had a telescope before and it is creating quite a stir, a telescope, too, whose owner collected nickels and dimes at the World's Fair just for a look thru its six and one half inch lense. The moon is playing up beautifully tonight and the lot swarms with children and dogs; one small dog on a leash adds much to the confusion until its owner is ordered sternly to take that pup home. "And don't forget the old man with a cane and his dog," says Ed. Not the man in the moon, surely. No, just the former owner of the telescope who is helping to set it up and teaching Mr. Sell the routine. Too old and lame to go around with his instrument any longer, he decided to sell it and one day Mr. Sell had a phone call. "Would you be interested in buying a telescope?" "Now," as Mr. Sell told Ed, "that was something unusual, so I bo't it and maybe the children will learn something. My folks would never buy any new fangled thing for us boys—no car, no phone, no radio. I might have done different if they had." So he does his best for his boys, car, radio, phone and now a telescope!

'Good Night Ladies' back to Chicago

Since the spectacular success was recorded almost four years ago by "Good Night Ladies!" the Blackstone theater in Chicago, site of its original triumph, has reserved time for its return engagement which will be realized when the farce opens a limited engagement there on Monday night, August 6.

"Good Night Ladies!", which costars Stage and Screen Comedians Skeets Gallagher and Edmund Glover, has made it a practice of shattering theatre records around the nation's key capitals since its birth in San Francisco. Chicago adopted the hit and it became the city's all-time, long run champion with the spectacular stay of 100 weeks.

"Good Night Ladies!" was fashioned from the theme of "Ladies Night in a Turkish Bath", a singularly successful farce from the World War I era. It was given a 1945 streamline by Cyrus Wood, who authored several noted Broadway musical comedy hits, and staged by Edward Clarke Lilley, a favorite director for the late Florenz Ziegfeld. Howard Lang, who divides his time between movie and stage production, presented the play in association with Al Rosen.

A large and lovely cast of stage and screen favorites constitutes the supporting company, many familiar to play patrons. The matinees for the repeat run will be on Wednesdays and Saturdays, with the Monday performances eliminated, and Sunday nights added.

At Ravinia

Pierre Monteux, the foremost French conductor of the present day and permanent director of the San Francisco Symphony, will occupy the podium at Ravinia during the sixth, and concluding, week of symphony music. As final guest conductor of the 1945 season, Monteux will begin his series of four concerts on Tuesday evening, August 7.

For his Tuesday, Aug. 7 evening concert, the famed conductor has chosen "Passacaglia and Fugue, C Minor," by Bach-Respighi, Beethoven's "Symphony No. 4, B Flat Major, Opus 60," Berlioz' "Excerpts from Dramatic Symphony 'Romeo and Juliet,' Opus 17," Ravel's "Alborada del Gracioso," and "Rondo, 'Till Eulenspiegel's Merry Pranks,' Opus 28" by Strauss.

Two novelties are included in the Thursday evening, Aug. 9 program. One is the Handel-Akon "Passacaglia in G Minor," which has not been played before in Chicago, and the second is Paul Creston's "Pastoral and Tarantella," which was presented in 1942 by the Illinois Symphony. In addition, the program includes the Brahms Second Symphony, Franck-Pierne's "Prelude, Cboral et Fugue," and Ravel's Orchestral Fragments from "Daphnis et Chloe" (first series).

On Saturday night, Aug. 11 Monteux will conduct the orchestra in Glinka's "Overture to 'Russlan and Ludmilla'"; the Shostakovich Symphony No. 6; Tschaikowsky's "Andante Cantabile, from String Quartet, No. 1, Opus 11"; and "Pictures at an Exhibition" by Mousorgsky, orchestrated by Maurice Ravel.

At Sunday, Aug. 12 afternoon's performance Milton Preves of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra viola section will be soloist in the Berlioz "March and Serenade from Symphony 'Harold in Italy'." Also included on the program are Verdi's "Overture to 'The Sicilian Vespers'," "Symphonic Poem, 'The Fountains of Rome'," by Respighi, and Franck's "Symphony, D Minor."

Sparkling comedy to end season at Playhouse

"Fresh Fields," the sparkling comedy by Ivor Novello, will be the last offering of the season at The New Lake Zurich Playhouse. When a raw Australian family and a group of genteel Londoners clash, there is plenty of fun ahead. The clumsy manners of the visitors and the hauteur of the aristocrats are most skillfully drawn by Mr. Novello, but the characters are lovable and human withal. Playing dates are August 3, 4 and 5—Friday, Saturday and Sunday, and early mailing and phone reservations will assure a good selection of seats.

The players and staff at the Playhouse wish to thank everyone for the grand reception of their shows, and are eagerly looking forward to an even better season next year.

ECONOMY

Men do not realize how great a revenue economy is.—Cicero.

Frugality is good, if liberality be joined with it. The first is leaving off superfluous expenses; the last bestowing them to the benefit of ohers that need.—William Penn.

To disregard the welfare of others is contrary to the law of God; therefore it deteriorates one's ability to do good, to benefit himself and mankind.

—Mary Baker Eddy.

It is no small commendation to manage a little well.—To live well in abundance is the praise of the estate, not of the person.

—Bishop Hall.

Proportion and propriety are among the best secrets of domestic wisdom; and there is no surer test of integrity than a well-proportioned expenditure.

—Hannah More.

Italy

Now on his way home on furlough from Italy where he served with the 85th Mountain Infantry division is Francis "Bud" Jorstad of Mt. Prospect. Bud has been awarded the Combat Infantryman's badge. He is expected home the middle of August for training before going on to the Pacific.

94th artillery

155s and 105s follow close to heels of infantry

S-Sgt. Bob Ross with outfit

The 94th artillery had a hectic seven days when the Marauder Division infantrymen broke out of the Saar River bridgehead and reached the Rhine River in the vicinity of Ludwigshafen. Staff Sergeant Robert Ross of Mt. Prospect is a member of the unit.

The artillery forces under Brigadier General Louis J. Fortier marched along with the infantry, at times giving rides to the infantrymen on the prime movers. At no time in the seven days of constant new positions were the guns more than a 1000 yards behind the leading elements.

The Germans, retreating in every mode of transportation, offered perfect targets to the artillery forward observers and Cub pilots who kept a minute by minute check on the columns. In Baumholder, due east of Saarburg, First Lt. Ted T. Allsup, Bloomington, Illinois, caught a Jerry column of horse-drawn vehicles on a ridge and in a half hour what was left of the German forces surrendered.

Lieutenant Colonel Hal S. Whitely of Dowagiac, Michigan, was in one small village on a reconnaissance for a command post and on his way back to his battalion he ran into infantrymen advancing to take the town. The surprised colonel remained to watch the infantrymen drag more than 50 Nazi prisoners out of cellars.

Lieutenant Colonel Robert G. Grandall of Baton Rouge, Louisiana, was on an observation post watching a few of his officers fire on a resisting village when an infantry cannon company commander asked the colonel if he would mind holding up his 155mm batteries long enough for him to get his sawed-off 105's ahead of the artillery. It seems the regimental commander had been after the cannon company CO for staying too far behind the infantrymen.

When the 302nd Infantry reached the Rhine a mile north of Ludwigshafen the artillery took up positions near the river bank to search for any possible targets. A forward observer discovered German soldiers on the east bank using a streetcar headed for Mannheim. The trolley went backward and forward until the bracket narrowed to a direct hit. By the time a 105 round bounced the trolley off the tracks most of the soldiers had taken to walking and were caught in a battalion concentration.

Gen. Fortier praised his supply forces for keeping the batteries supplied with ammunition and hot meals despite a supply route which was 75 miles long at the end of the drive. When the artillery preparation was laid down in Ludwigshafen half of the anti-tank guns holding up the advance of the infantrymen were knocked out.

Bronze star to Bob Proebstle

S. Sgt. Robert J. Proebstle, Cavalry, was awarded the Bronze Star Medal July 20 during Retreat parade at McCaw General Hospital, Walla Walla, Washington, where he has been a patient since January of this year. He is the son of Mrs. Caroline Proebstle, 1224 E. Kensington Road, Arlington Heights.

The citation reads as follows: S. Sgt. Proebstle "who while serving with the Army of the United States distinguished himself by meritorious achievement during the period 2 August 44 to 13 October 44 in France. During this period Sgt. Proebstle was serving as platoon sergeant of a reconnaissance platoon whose missions were frontal and flank reconnaissance for both Armored and Infantry Divisions. Sgt. Proebstle has handled all missions assigned to him in a superior manner. He has shown outstanding skill in displacing his men and guns when coming in contact with the enemy. The leadership of Sgt. Proebstle has aided materially in the advance of his squadron through France and reflect high credit on his character as a soldier and upon the military service."

82nd AA sets an enviable record

Received this week was "The All American Paraglide", 82nd Airborne division's newspaper, published on V-E day. The paper was sent by Pvt. Ralph Smith, a member of that outfit since June 13, 1944.

The 82nd division made the D-Day assault on Sicily, where they took 20,000 prisoners, Salerno, Normandy and Holland; a sea entry at Anzio, and the vital river crossing assaults at the Volturno, Douve, Merderet, Maas, Waal, Rhine and Elbe rivers. The record of the division includes being attached to every British, American and Canadian army except the British 8th, alongside of which they fought up Italy.

Biggest bag of prisoners occurred in the final days of the war when the German 21st army surrendered to the 82nd Airborne division. An estimated 150,000 Krauts were taken in this one action. One of the special honors for the 82nd was the release of its own men from German prison camps where they had been interned since their capture in the Sicilian campaign.

Pvt. Smith wrote a short note with the paper.

"Have meant to write sooner and express my gratitude for the Herald. I think it's the finest small town paper I have ever seen, and that the servicemen's page really helps keep me in touch with the boys.

"I've been in the 82nd since June 13, 1944, and was a member of the 505th parachute Infantry during the Holland campaign, the Battle of the Bulge, the closing of the Ruhr pocket and the Elbe river crossing."

His address is Pfc. R. A. Smith, 36753920, Co H 505 Prcht Inf., A PO 469, % PM, New York, N. Y.

Posthumous Silver Star to Herbert Herr

The Silver Star for gallantry in action has been posthumously awarded to Staff Sergeant Herbert J. Herr, of 122 West Wood St., Palatine, killed in the Cebu, Philippine Islands, campaign April 2.

The Illinois sergeant showed a lot of "guts" in going out of his way to do a tough job well. A squad of infantrymen of which Herr was not a member, had lost its squad leader, assistant squad leader, and two other men in action. Another strong enemy attack threatened to overrun the squad. Sergeant Herr placed his assistant in charge of his own squad, whose sector was secure, and ordered two of his men to follow him to the aid of the decimated group.

Upon reaching it Sergeant Herr took charge, exposing himself in order that he might more effectively direct the defense of the position. Sergeant Herr's courage and leadership so "sparked" the men in the squad that they moved forward against the enemy and repulsed them. During the action the sergeant was mortally wounded by the Jap fire.

The citation accompanying the decoration reads in part: "His gallantry and skillful leadership throughout the action were a source of great inspiration to all who took part in it."

IMPORTANT NOTICE
to wage-earners in the Chicago area

DO YOU WANT TO SERVE YOUR COUNTRY?
DO YOU WANT TO PREPARE FOR THE FUTURE?

You are needed to take a job at Douglas at once!

We are building vitally needed aircraft . . . C-54 Combat Air Transports . . . designed for the conflict against Japan. No one knows how long it will take to defeat the Japanese. In any case, we do know that the real struggle is just beginning. Iwo Jima and Okinawa have shown us how bitterly our victory will be contested and how great the price in American lives. If we are unable to turn out the planes—needed now more than ever—thousands of American boys may die unnecessarily . . . because of our failure here in Chicago.

Some may object—"The war is almost over and now is not the time to take a so-called war job." But the war is NOT over. It is apparent that the most difficult and bloody phase is just starting.

Others may feel that they'd better "get set" now in a peacetime job before the flood of demobilization starts. But no real advantage can thus be gained. When complete demobilization comes—if it ever does—ability will find its own level everywhere. Each of us will then find and hold the job for which we are fitted. It is a law of nature.

Meanwhile we need more production workers—urgently! There is no better way to serve America and prepare for the future than by coming to work at Douglas . . . NOW!

NO CUTBACKS HERE

Instead of cutting production, our schedules are actually being increased. The Army wants more and more Douglas C-54's as fast as we can build them. To help us obtain workers needed to build them War Manpower Commission has granted us a No. 2 Labor Priority, higher than any other war plant in Chicagoland. This is your opportunity to learn the aviation trade. Apply at once.

IF YOU LIVE NORTH OR NORTHWEST . . . and are not now in essential industry . . .

Italy

Now on his way home on furlough from Italy where he served with the 85th Mountain Infantry division is Francis "Bud" Jorstad of Mt. Prospect. Bud has been awarded the Combat Infantryman's badge. He is expected home the middle of August for training before going on to the Pacific.

94th artillery

155s and 105s follow close to heels of infantry

S-Sgt. Bob Ross with outfit

The 94th artillery had a hectic seven days when the Marauder Division infantrymen broke out of the Saar River bridgehead and reached the Rhine River in the vicinity of Ludwigshafen. Staff Sergeant Robert Ross of Mt. Prospect is a member of the unit.

The artillery forces under Brigadier General Louis J. Fortier marched along with the infantry, at times giving rides to the infantrymen on the prime movers. At no time in the seven days of constant new positions were the guns more than a 1000 yards behind the leading elements.

The Germans, retreating in every mode of transportation, offered perfect targets to the artillery forward observers and Cub pilots who kept a minute by minute check on the columns. In Baumholder, due east of Saarburg, First Lt. Ted T. Allsup, Bloomington, Illinois, caught a Jerry column of horse-drawn vehicles on a ridge and in a half hour what was left of the German forces surrendered.

Lieutenant Colonel Hal S. Whitely of Dowagiac, Michigan, was in one small village on a reconnaissance for a command post and on his way back to his battalion he ran into infantrymen advancing to take the town. The surprised colonel remained to watch the infantrymen drag more than 50 Nazi prisoners out of cellars.

Lieutenant Colonel Robert G. Grandall of Baton Rouge, Louisiana, was on an observation post watching a few of his officers fire on a resisting village when an infantry cannon company commander asked the colonel if he would mind holding up his 155mm batteries long enough for him to get his sawed-off 105's ahead of the artillery. It seems the regimental commander had been after the cannon company CO for staying too far behind the infantrymen.

When the 302nd Infantry reached the Rhine a mile north of Ludwigshafen the artillery took up positions near the river bank to search for any possible targets. A forward observer discovered German soldiers on the east bank using a streetcar headed for Mannheim. The trolley went backward and forward until the bracket narrowed to a direct hit.
